TAFT, BETTER, RECEIVES VISIT FROM HOOVERS

Retired Chief Justice Sits Up as Executive and First Lady Call.

INVALID GETS REST; TAKES NOURISHMENT

Holds Gain Made Since Arrival Even Though Recovery Doubted.

TWO SONS SUMMONED TO FATHER'S BEDSIDE

President Cheers Patient; Gives Long Handclasp at Parting.

(Picture on Page Three.)

Physicians attending William Howard Taft announced last night that he had "maintained the improvement noted this morning, has rested quietly and has taken more nourishment."

The bulletin was made public at the White House. It was signed by Dr. Francis Hagner and Dr. Thomas A. Claytor. Later, at 10:55 o'clock, Dr. Hagner said the patient was resting comfortably.

Mr. Taft was able yesterday to receive his friend, President Hoover for a few minutes.

Mr. Taft, for whose ultimate recovery physicians have little hope, was sitting up and cheerful when the President called. Mr. Hoover took his hand and greeted him with a smile and an expression of gratification that he was feeling better.

Former Jurist Smiles.

The former President smiled and feebly expressed his pleasure at the visit, the first the two had had since before Mr. Taft entered a hospital here early last month for treatment and later left for Asheville, N. C., for three weeks of rest.

The President remained in the room for only a little while, exchanging a few words with the sick man. As he took his departure, he again clasped Mr. Taft's right hand, holding it a little longer than would be customary in the case of an ordinary handshake.

Accompanied only by Mrs. Hoover and secret service men, Mr. Hoover drove to the Taft home on Wyoming avenue late in the afternoon. He remained for about a quarter of an hour. The visit was at the invitation of Mrs. Taft, extended during the forenoon after the physicians had found their patient to be in better condition than they had hoped for.

Police Assigned to Home.

Mrs. Taft greeted the President and Mrs. Hoover and introduced them to the doctors, Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor, who had arrived earlier to prepare their patient for the coming of the Chief Executive.

The doctors and Mr. Taft's secretary accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Hoover to the sick room. Mrs. Hoover soon joined Mrs. Taft in a room nearby. The President met them there later and expressed to Mrs. Taft his hope that the former Chief Justice would continue to show improvement.

A small police detail was at the Taft home, a three-story red brick structure located in a large plot on a corner. Only a few persons beside photographers and newspaper men were gathered nearby during the visit, and the photographers were instructed that there would be no pictures of the visit.

Families Long Intimate.

Long intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Taft, the President and Mrs. Hoover frequently had visited the Taft home in the days before they took up their residence in the White House. The President has valued the friendship of Mr. Taft and at times leaned up the former Chief Justice for advice and counsel.

After an unusually restful night—the first under his own roof in weeks—Mr. Taft awoke yesterday feeling much better than on Tuesday, when he arrived from Asheville in a state bordering almost upon collapse. During some of the day he was able to sit up in an easy chair.

Visiting their patient early in the day, the attending physicians issued this bulletin just before noon:

"The Chief Justice is slightly better than yesterday. He spent a quiet night and is comfortable this morning."

While Mr. Taft's condition showed some improvement overnight, physicians had given up all hope of curing the complication of diseases from which he is suffering. The two sons of the 73-year-old former President, Charles P. and Robert A. Taft, are preparing to come to Washington.

Conference to Hasten Debate on Submarines

Total Abolition to Be Advocated Tuesday at Public Plenary Session, With French Counter-Proposal to Humanize Operations Expected.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Total abolition of submarines will be advocated by the United States and Great Britain at a public plenary session of the London naval conference which, the big five decided at a meeting today, shall be called in St. James Palace at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald predicted today that the present conference will be followed by an international disarmament conference to consider reduction of land and air as well as naval armaments.

"I hope that at the conclusion of the five-power conference," he said, "a further meeting of the preparatory commission on disarmament will be held which will enable the next assembly of the league to arrange for summoning an international disarmament conference."

It is a foregone conclusion that France, Japan and Italy will vigorously contest the Anglo-American move for outlawing undersea craft. France is expected to counter with a proposal for a treaty humanizing submarine warfare, under the terms of which submersibles could not be used against merchant vessels, food ships or other noncombatant craft.

The attitudes of the Americans and British, on one hand, and the Latins and Japanese, on the other, are so far apart on submarines that nobody expects any decision as to the future of these ships to be reached at Tuesday's session. The dispute will be referred to a committee for definite action later.

Commencement of tentative discussions of figures and ratios—and despite all reports such conversations have hitherto been only vague and exploratory—has resulted in displays of annoyance today by several naval conference delegations. Premier Andre Tardieu of France made no attempt tonight to veil his annoyance with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who is blocking progress, he intimated, by declining to commit him-

EXTORTION CHARGE FILED IN RUM PLOT

Warrant Out for Resigned Aid to Attorney General of Oklahoma.

SQUEEZED $2,200, CLAIM

Oklahoma City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—W. Oscar Gordon, who Monday resigned as assistant attorney general of Oklahoma, late today was charged with extortion after witnesses had testified in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial in Federal court here that they had paid Gordon a total of $2,200 to escape prosecution in connection with their activities in the widespread conspiracy.

Soon after the Government rested its case in the trial of the 26 persons, including Randall Pitman, county attorney, and Frank Fox, former sheriff, the complaint against Gordon was filed by Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney. A warrant for the former State official's arrest was placed in the hands of the United States marshal.

The complaint against Gordon alleges he demanded and received $1,000 from Homer Knappenberger, former Mayor of Earlsboro, paid at the State capitol June 21, 1928, in return for withholding information he had uncovered against Knappenberger and Clarence Burdette, former Earlsboro chief of police.

Burdette testified that Knappenberger supplied the money which was paid to Gordon. In addition to the $1,000 payment, they testified, two other payments of $400 and $800 were made.

Knappenberger further testified that Gordon returned $200 to him in Oklahoma City a week ago.

The Government rested in the conspiracy trial after the testimony of Chester King, 16-year-old Earlsboro youth, who told of having purchased whisky at various places in the oil town.

A flood of defense demurrers followed and rulings were deferred by Judge Edgar S. Vaught until tomorrow, when introduction of defense testimony is expected to begin after the demurrers and motions have been ruled on.

The number of defendants was reduced to 26 today by four dismissals on motion of the district attorney. The four were John Reed, Jud Frank Willingham, Ira Lewis and Charles Keys.

HEAVRINS ARRESTED IN FIGHT ON POLICE

McPherson Quiz Witnesses Face Assault Charge After Battle.

HUSBAND HURLS PEPPER

Roy R. Heavrin, 39 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Anna Heavrin, 45, who were star prosecution witnesses in the grand jury inquiry of the death of Mrs. Virginia McPherson, were arrested on assault charges yesterday following a heated battle with two policemen in their apartment at the Park Lane, Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Patrolmen Irving Rosenberg and R. S. Miller, of the Third Precinct, responding to a telephone call for aid, discovered Mrs. Heavrin, on the verge of hysterics, standing outside the door of her first floor apartment and talking excitedly with Wilmer C. Ruff, manager of the building.

Complaining that her husband had beaten her, threatened her life, and ejected her from the apartment, the policemen said Mrs. Heavrin requested them to arrest her husband.

As the door of the apartment was opened by the manager, Heavrin greeted the policemen by hurling a handful of red pepper in their eyes, police say, and then attempted to take their batons from them.

As he was blinded by the pepper, Rosenberg reported, Heavrin downed him on a bed, biting, scratching and kicking him. At this stage of the battle, it was reported, Mrs. Heavrin united with her husband and began pulling the policemen's hair.

When a detail of policemen arrived at the battle-wrecked apartment, Rosenberg and Miller had succeeded in subduing the Heavrins, they reported. The two policemen and Heavrin, who was cut and bruised in the melee, were treated by Dr. Leonard McCarthy at Emergency Hospital and Heavrin was then transferred to Gallinger Hospital, where a police guard was detailed over him. Mrs. Heavrin was lodged in the House of Detention.

Testimony of the Heavrins played a prominent part in the return of a first-degree murder indictment against Robert McPherson, jr., 21 years old, following the first grand jury investigation of the death of his wife, Mrs. Virginia McPherson. The

Dancer Pictures 'Wedding' She Alleges Earle Faked

Artist Put Her Through Bogus Ceremony at Mexico City and Fooled Her on $15,000 Marriage Pledge, Dolores Salazar Tells Court.

Los Angeles, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Dolores Salazar, Spanish dancer and actress, testified today in her suit for $30,000 damages against Ferdinand Pinney ("Affinity") Earle for alleged breach of contract that the artist took her to a church in the outskirts of Mexico City in 1927 where a "fake marriage ceremony" was performed.

"I thought it was a real marriage," the dancer said, "but it was a fake ceremony. There was a priest there—apparently part Mexican and part Indian—dressed in a black robe and wearing the usual clerical collar. He read the ceremony, and I signed what I thought was a marriage certificate. Later I learned it was simply a worthless piece of paper. I also signed a book in which were recorded the names of persons married there."

The suit alleged that Earle promised Miss Salazar work in a motion picture he was producing and a $15,000 bank account as a pledge of good faith. The actress said she waited at a bank while Earle was inside supposedly depositing the money in her name. She said later she found he had made no deposit.

During the morning session Miss Salazar, interrupting her testimony frequently by sobbing, described Earle's exotic lovemaking. She said on New Year's eve, 1926, Earle took her into his garden at his Hollywood home, where a party was being held, and at the stroke of midnight repeated a marriage ceremony from memory and said, "Now we are man and wife in the eyes of God."

Before this episode, the girl testified, Earle purchased an engagement ring and trousseau for her. In January, 1927, she said, Earle came to her, his face scratched, and said he had been to see her family.

"Your father turned down the $15,000. He says his daughter is not for

HOOVER NAMES CROSBY AS ONE COMMISSIONER

Military Disciplinarian Is Taken to Whip Capital Into Model City.

GENERAL TO DEVOTE HIMSELF TO POLICE

Selection Is in Line With Executive Demand of Dry Enforcement.

NO COUNSEL TAKEN ON ANNOUNCEMENT

Akerson Is Believed to Have Originated Idea of Army Man.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

In line with his determination to make Washington the country's model city, President Hoover yesterday definitely announced that he would name a military man, Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, chief of Cavalry, as Police Commissioner after he retires March 21.

It has been known for several days that the President had offered the place to Gen. Crosby, and the President's statement yesterday followed his acceptance.

In naming him, the President not only departed from what heretofore has been looked upon as the spirit, at least, of the law governing District Commissioners, but also the practice by which the Commissioners have divided the work among themselves. Gen. Crosby goes in as Police Commissioner as a "guarantee to both the official and unofficial residents of the District, and especially to the Nation at large, that the Capital of the Nation shall be free of organized crime."

Didn't Want Post.

Gen. Crosby does not "wish to become presiding Commissioner," the President said, "and prefers to devote himself" to the police, fire and traffic services.

Selection of Gen. Crosby follows and is in line with the President's demand for a more effective and airtight dry law for the District. Senator Howell, of Nebraska, has such a bill pending now and in the preparation of it has gone further than the Department of Justice proposed, in that he would make it lawful for agents to search a private residence if they saw liquor being carried into it.

It may or may not be significant, too, that the general's selection follows the demand of Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of the Marines, be given the job of drying up Washington. Although Butler's attempt to dry up Philadelphia was admittedly a failure, Brookhart has insisted it was because he did not have the cooperation of the city's wealthier citizens.

What President Said.

Here is what the President said in making known his selection of Gen. Crosby:

"After Maj. Gen. Crosby has re-

HOOVER PLEADS AS RESIDENT OF CITY FOR CHEST

President Tells Value of the Organization in Radio Talk.

STRESSES SPIRITUAL SIDE OF MOVEMENT

$603,000 Must Be Raised Today if Campaign Is to Succeed.

$1,183,296 IS TOTAL OF CONTRIBUTIONS

1930 Drive Is Due to End Today as Prospect of Fresh Effort Looms.

Speaking "as a citizen of Washington rather than as the President of the United States," President Hoover yesterday made a direct appeal for support of the Community Chest, which now faces the necessity of raising about $603,000 in one day if it is to complete its quota of $1,786,737.07 by the time the 1930 drive for funds ends tonight.

The Chief Executive's address was delivered to about 150 Washingtonians in the east room of the White House, the purpose of the assemblage being to form an advisory committee to the special gifts committee of the chest.

In addition, his talk was broadcast by radio stations WMAL and WRC. Mrs. Hoover remained practically throughout the meeting, but the President, because of the pressure of other business, could stay only long enough to deliver his appeal.

Text of President's Talk.

Following is the full text of President Hoover's address:

"The Community Chests in our cities have demonstrated their value and importance for effective conduct in administration of the multitude of charities necessary within our great municipalities. They represent our greatest advance in the administration of charity. Their great purpose is the handling with large vision of the obligations of a whole city to the less fortunate residents. They guarantee integrity and efficient conduct of charitable administration. They assure skill in administration, freedom from prejudice; they give support to charities of vital necessity, yet of less emotional appeal; they free the administration of our charitable institutions from anxiety and the diversion of their time from primary duties to the constant collection of funds. They give assurance of continuity; they make for the relief of the residents of a community from constant supplication and uncertainty.

"The Community Chest stands for the sense of charity of the city. And charity is the obligation of the strong to the weak; it is the practice of a spiritual impulse; it is the restraint of selfishness; it is the expression of the confidence of mankind. Works of

Woman Is Confirmed To Tax Appeal Board

Annabel Mathews Gets Approval of Senate for $10,000 Job.

(Associated Press.)

The dream of a Georgia school teacher that she could fit herself to hold an important Government position came true yesterday when the Senate confirmed the appointment of Miss Annabel Mathews as a member of the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

Having entered the Government service at a salary of $900 a year, Miss Mathews now assumes a judicial position that pays $10,000 annually. She had prepared herself for the post through study of law and of tax matters while a Government clerk. She will be the only woman member of the board of sixteen.

Miss Mathews was born in Gainesville, Ga., on December 31, 1883, and after graduating from Brenau College, taught school in her home State until she came to Washington to enter the Internal Revenue Bureau on March 4, 1914. Apt in her work from the start, her advance in the service began less than a year after she had entered it, and she developed into one of the outstanding experts on the huge staff employed by the Government.

She received her law degree in 1921, after which she was appointed an attorney in the office of the general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau. So expert had she become in tax matters, especially those relating to double taxation, that she was selected over the men of the office to attend international conferences on tax matters held abroad.

Advancing steadily, she finally became attorney in the general counsel's office at a salary of $4,000 a year. It was her fourteenth or fifteenth salary increase since she entered Government service.

Overcoming any prejudice against women in important Government positions, Miss Mathews soon was preparing many of the bureau's briefs which were submitted to the Board of Tax Appeals in important tax cases.

In her new position she will be enabled to bring an intimate knowledge of the inside of tax affairs to the board.

ASSAILANT ARRESTED AT ONCE BY OFFICERS

Acted on Own Initiative, He Says; Portes Gil Claims Vasconcelos Plot.

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—An unsuccessful attempt was made upon the life of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, new President of Mexico, today, only two hours after he had been sworn in as chief executive of the republic.

The president was wounded in the jaw by one of six bullets fired by a youthful assailant who lay in wait for him at the honor gate of the national palace. Rushed first to his home, and then to the Red Cross Hospital, the president was given immediate treatment for the injury.

It was found that the bullet penetrated the left jaw and lodged in the mouth. It was readily extracted. Hospital authorities said the condition of their distinguished patient was not serious. Dr. Jose Puig Casauranc, head of the Mexico City federal district, was quoted this evening as saying that the president probably would be back at his desk at the end of four days.

Lower Jawbone Broken.

But Dr. Jose Perez Gil y Ortiz, who attended the president, said that the bullet had broken the bone of the lower jaw. He said that after passing through the left jaw the missile lodged in the opposite cheek. It was fired from a .38-caliber pistol.

Emilio Portes Gil, retiring president, and secretary of the interior in the new cabinet, said tonight the attack was the outcome of a plot by followers of Jose Vasconcelos, defeated presidential candidate of the anti-reelectionist party. He told newspapermen that Senora de Ortiz Rubio had received an unsigned letter a few days ago threatening death to her husband.

The assailant was surrounded by police, who were guarding the president. After questioning the authorities decided that his name was Miguel Flores, 22 years old. He claimed to have been acting on his own initiative, but the police, acting on the plot theory, arrested seven other persons on suspicion. They said that Flores was not motivated by religious belief and that he was not a Communist. They announced that he had acknowledged sympathy for the Vasconcelos party.

Three Others Wounded.

Besides the president, three other occupants of the car were wounded by bullets. Senora de Ortiz Rubio was grazed by a missile which brought blood from her ear and scalp. A small niece of the president, Maria Rosh, also was grazed by a bullet.

The hero of the presidential party was the chauffeur, Felix Galvan. He was wounded in the face by one of the bullets, but held on to the wheel, kept the car going through the excited crowd that surged around the palace, and drove his master to the Red Cross Hospital.

Other persons in the machine were cut by shattered glass.

Senor Portes Gil followed up his earlier announcement with a signed statement tonight in which he said that the attempted assassination is proof that there are elements in the country who seek to cast the nation into chaos and ruin, regardless of the means employed. He assured the public, however, the government is able to handle any situation that might

JILTED MAN SLAYS GIRL, SHOOTS SELF

Another Woman Hit by Bullet as Eight Shots Fly in New York Crowd.

NOON THRONG IN PANIC

New York, Feb. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Noonday crowds at Madison avenue and Thirty-first street were thrown into panic today when Joe Arana, an Argentinian, drew a nine-shot automatic and fired eight shots, fatally wounding his sweetheart, injuring another girl who was passing, and finally firing two bullets into his own temple.

The sweetheart, Miss Marie Carballo, 22, died later at Bellevue Hospital with six bullets in her body. The other girl, Miss Vera Bauer, 20, of the Bronx, is at the same hospital suffering with a painful wound in the thigh and from loss of blood. Arana tonight is unconscious at the New York Hospital and not expected to live. If he does, he will be charged with murder.

Jealousy and despair because she would not marry him was assigned as the motive for the shooting by Miss Carballo in a gasping statement made to an interpreter just before she died. Miss Carballo whispered:

"Tony was drunk. He said last Friday that he would kill me when I wouldn't marry him."

Madison avenue was jammed with people at the luncheon hour when Arana, with the bulky gun in his pocket waited at the northeast corner of Thirty-first street for the girl to return to her work at the Victoria Petticoat Co. He was familiar with the movements of Miss Carballo and had haunted the factory recently until, at the request of the girl, the management had him excluded from the premises.

Miss Carballo and a friend, Miss Georgiano Vego, presently came by and, according to Miss Vego, Arana approached them and began pleading with the Carballo girl. A quarrel started and she went on her way to the factory.

Bystanders said that Arana, apparently finding that he could make

DREYFUS KIN FEARED IMPENDING TRAGEDY

Carl Fischer, Father, Informs Grand Jury He Sensed Daughter's Danger.

KING LINK EMPHASIZED

Pausing frequently to brush the tears from his eyes, Carl Fischer, gray-haired father of Mrs. Aurelia Fischer Dreyfus, yesterday told the grand jury how, moved by a vague sense of impending tragedy, he had pleaded with his daughter not to go to the Potomac Boat Club dance, which terminated in her death on the night of October 20.

Mr. Fischer told the jury that on the day following the tragedy, Edmund J. McBrien, New York broker, who had escorted Mrs. Dreyfus to the dance, had attempted to take her automobile from the Fischer garage, and, foiled therein by Mr. Fischer, that he had then taken a suitcase belonging to Mrs. Dreyfus in which, he told the grand jury, she had numerous letters and other papers, which, she had told her parents, contained important information about the unsolved murder of Dot King, "Broadway butterfly," in 1923.

Mrs. Dreyfus, who was the "mysterious blonde" who established an alibi for Albert E. Guimares, who had been arrested in connection with the death of his sweetheart, Dot King, later told her mother and sisters that in testifying in the King investigation she had been forced to perjure herself, according to affidavits given to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover by members of her family.

As Mr. Fischer left the grand jury room, a deputy marshal handed him the order for his witness fee. He brushed the paper aside roughly.

"What is this? Money for telling about this tragedy of my life?" he said. "No, no. I do not want it."

Other witnesses heard yesterday included the mother, sisters and brothers of the dead girl, and family friends who testified that they had seen bruises on her neck as she lay in her casket awaiting burial. The

Elderly Sisters Are Evicted From Home of 20 Years

Two Women With Money at Their Call, Protest to Very Last and Call Divine Wrath Upon Those Who Force Them Out.

Protesting to the very last and calling upon the Lord of Hosts to vent His wrath upon those responsible for their eviction, two sisters, Mrs. Anna Morgan Johnson and Mrs. Margaret Morgan Millsap, of 1372 Harvard street northwest, were removed yesterday afternoon by police of the Tenth Precinct to Gallinger Hospital, while their effects were sent by deputy marshals to a storage company for future disposal.

The pitiful scene and the circumstances surrounding their dispossession from the home they had owned and occupied for more than twenty years, stirred the sympathy of the crowd attracted to the place and more than one tear-dimmed eye could be found among the curiosity seekers—some neighbors, others strangers, who had gathered to watch the law take its course.

Twenty and more years ago Mrs. Johnson was chaplain of the Daughters of the American Revolution, while her sister was a teacher in the District public schools. Mrs. Johnson was a divorcee, her husband and children now living in Chicago, while Mrs. Millsap, a decade or more ago, became a widow.

Thirty or more years ago the Morgans were socially prominent in Virginia. They boasted lineage from Gen. Pierre G. T. Beauregard, of the Confederate Army. Affluence, influence and wealth were theirs. They knew no want; their friends were legion.

For more than twenty years the two sisters were devout members of St. Stephen's and the Incarnation Church, at Sixteenth and Newton streets.

Friends entreated them to give up the large nine-room house on Harvard street and move to quarters smaller and more adaptable to their

A 50 peso gold piece, worth about $25 in American money, and a few religious trinkets were found on the gunman, but there were no papers to involve possible accomplices. Six hours after the shooting he was taken from the national palace and turned over to the attorney general's office. His home was announced as San Luis Potosi.

Meanwhile, the president was removed from the hospital, leaving there at 6:25 p. m., and arriving at his residence at Vera Cruz and Durango streets 25 minutes later.

A heavy guard accompanied the ambulance through the streets, and more than 100 uniformed police formed a cordon around the house. Admittance was refused to any except the highest government officials.

Officials of foreign governments, sent here as representatives of their nations at the inauguration, called at the foreign office tonight.

U. S. Envoys Call.

Reuben Clark, special American Ambassador, and Herschel Johnson, charge d'affaires of the United States Embassy, were the first to call. A few minutes later Urvo de Pena, Uruguayan Minister, called. He was followed by the Cuban Ambassador, Marquez Sterling, and after them came a steady stream of ministers, ambassadors and special national representatives. All of them added to their expressions of regret their felicitations over the escape of the new president from death.

Sr. Portes Gil rather naturally took charge of affairs. Early this evening he went into conference with Luis Leon, new secretary of industry, commerce and labor; Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, Gen. Manuel Perez Trevino, secretary of agriculture; Genaro Estrada, secretary of foreign relations, and Juan de Dios Bojorquez, chief of the statistical department of the government.

The conference canceled all festivities that had been planned in connection with the inauguration.

Sons Informed at Gettysburg.

Gettysburg, Pa., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—While celebrating the inauguration of their father, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, as president of Mexico, his two sons, Fernando and Guillermo Ortiz Rubio, students at Gettysburg Academy, were informed by the Associated Press that he had been wounded by a would-be assassin.

They expressed deep concern over their father's misfortune, although happy at the thought that the wound was not serious.

The youths had been excused from the regular routine of the academy following the close of classes today. It was while they were at the moving picture show that they were informed of the shooting of their father.

(Associated Press.)

The attempt on the life of President Ortiz Rubio in Mexico City shocked Washington last night, but comment was withheld pending receipt of official advices.

First word of the shooting was relayed to President Hoover, State Department officers and the Mexican Embassy by the Associated Press. The department and the embassy immediately sought telephonic communication with Mexico City to get further details.

Attaches at the Mexican Embassy were extremely agitated by the wounding of their new president. Every member of the staff gathered in the embassy, recalled from their homes, although it was past the usual closing time.

Telephone Call Placed.

Dr. Pablo Campos-Ortiz, first secretary and acting charge d'affaires in the absence of Manuel C. Tellez, the ambassador, who was in Mexico City for the inauguration, immediately placed a long-distance telephone call to the ministry of foreign affairs in Mexico City.

Sr. Ortiz Rubio is well known in the United States through his recent visit here after his election last fall. As a result of his visit, an unusually large number of Americans were attracted to the Mexican capital today. They crowded hotels, and made up a considerable portion of the crowds in the streets.

His romantic career as a Mexican leader dates from the overthrow of the Porfirio Diaz dictatorship in 1911. When Francisco Madero took office as the first revolutionary president, he threw his lot with the rebels. He was elected to the Chamber of Deputies from Michoacan while Madero was president but was ousted and thrown into jail by Madero's successor. He occupied various important civilian posts under succeeding governments.

Immediate Punishment Promised by Portes Gil

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A signed statement was given out tonight by Emilio Portes Gil, retiring president of Mexico, respecting the wounding today of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, new president of the republic. The statement said:

"Upon taking charge of the department of the interior, I think it is my duty to address the nation and to give an account of the savage attempt by an individual named Daniel Flores who, when the president and his family were leaving the palace en route home after the ceremony of inauguration at the stadium, fired six shots from a revolver, with the result that the following were wounded:

"The president, hiswife, Josefina Ortix de Ortiz; his niece, Miss Maria Rosh, and the chaufeur who was driving the automobile in which they were riding.

"Fortunately, the wounds, which might well have ben grave because of the delicate places they struck, are not of fatal conseuence. The president, his wife and the other wounded persons were promptly attended at the Red Cross Hospital and are entirely free fro mdanger.

"The criminal was apprehended and turned over to the attorney general for investigation.

"This vile act clearly reveals that there are in the country morbose elements who shun no method, whatever its character may be, to cast the Nation into chaos and ruin.

"While the judicial authorities will probe this attempt to the bottom, I consider it my duty to make it known that the revoluionary government is firm in its determination to enforce the principles of the Mexican social movement It is ready to face any situation that may arise and will punish severely all criminal attempts of this nature.

"The Nation, therefore, may remain calm, especially since they are assured that the plotters of the attempt which came near causing the deaths of the president and his family, have managed only to lower their cause in the eyes of public opinion. Meanwhile the revolutionary government has amply fortified its position."

THRONG WITNESSES MEXICAN INAUGURAL

Many Americans Observed in Crowd at Exercises in National Stadium.

POLICIES ARE OUTLINED

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The second civilian in the recent history of Mexico to take over the government, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, today was inaugurated president in a simple, brief ceremony in the National Stadium, crowded with at least 50,000 spectators. As many more were massed outside listening to the new president's inaugural address which came to them through loud speakers.

President Ortiz Rubio, who took the oath at 12:25 p. m., delivered the brief inaugural speech in which he pledged his government to adhere to the principles of the revolutionary party and above all to labor for the betterment of the working class.

Within a minute after Ortiz Rubio had mounted the platform in the center of the field he took the oath of office administered by Melchor Ortega, president of the joint session of Congress, which had convened in the stadium for the ceremony.

Portes Gil Attends.

President Portes Gil stood during the administering of the oath by which the government was turned over to the duly elected chief executive. The inaugural speech then followed. Former President Calles was not on the presidential platform and it was said he had not attended the inaugural because of his desire completely to retire from public life.

A markedly American aspect was given to the ceremony by the presence of several hundred Americans who had come here for the inaugural.

Reuben Clark, President Hoover's personal ambassador for the inauguration, occupied the diplomatic box nearest the presidential stand, while a score or more of the new president's official guests from the United States occupied positions in the forefront. The rest of the American visitors occupied chairs on the inaugural stand.

"Social Government" Pledged.

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, in his inauguration speech today, promised above all to work for the people, terming the workers and peasants the "hope" of Mexico. He said he would endeavor to remove all boundaries between the government and the people, seeking to establish a "social government" of common understanding and interest with the masses.

Restoration of conservative or even moderate men and systems, he declared, was impossible because the country was heart and soul intent on the radical work of restoring to the race its heritage, the revolution had brought its own morals, its own justice, its own policies, in short, its own conception of life, he explained, promising that his government would be "eminently revolutionary."

Pointing out that Mexico enjoys cordial relations with the outside world and "particularly with the United States," the new president termed it an auspicious occasion for getting down to the solid work of reconstruction. In this he asked the help of all Mexicans, at home and abroad, cooperating with whatever means were within their power toward the progress and prosperity of the nation.

TARIFF CUTS PASSED BY SENATE COALITION

Six Items Are Slashed Below Existing Rate and Five Are Restored.

NEW ROLL CALLS TAKEN

(Associated Press.)

The Democrats and Republican Independents who, with few exceptions, have held the whip hand in the Senate revision of industrial tariffs, succeeded yesterday in slashing six chemical duties below the level of existing law, restoring five levies to their present status, and cutting one proposed increase in half.

The coalition suffered three reverses, however, as the Republican old guard, strengthened by half a dozen bolting Democrats, came back to stem the tide of downward revision.

The day proved one of the most dramatic and busiest of the five months the Senate has wrestled with the House tariff bill. Finished with more than 450 committee amendments, the first of the fifteen rate sections of the measure was opened to individual changes and they came thick and fast.

Nine Roll Calls Required.

Nine roll calls were required to settle as many disputes that would not down via the viva voce route.

Although assured by Democratic leaders that the minority party did not propose to "run wild" with reduction proposals, but would confine its rate-cutting to articles where importations were negligible, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, arranged for a conference today to map out a program for future action with respect to coalition proposals and to determine the attitude toward final passage of the measure.

Leaders look for a final vote by February 15, and it is understood that, while somewhat upset over reverses suffered at the hands of the coalition, Republican regulars will vote for passage in order to get the bill to conference with the Republican measure passed by the House.

Aspirin Levy Reduced.

After losing by a tie on the first vote of the day, regarded as a test, Democrats maneuvered for a few absentees and after reconsideration, won by a margin of two votes to lower the recent levy on acetic anhydride, used in the manufacture of silk dyes and aspirin, from 5 to 2½ cents a pound.

Ten Republican independents lined up with the Democrats for the reduction. One Democrat, Senator Broussard, of Louisiana, voted against the cut, Senator Ransdell, was opposed on the first roll call, but was paired on the second.

Other rates cut below existing law were those on boric acid, which was lowered from 1½ to 1 cent a pound; acetone from 25 to 20 per cent; low grade aluminum sulphate, slight reduction; collodion and other liquid solutions of pyroxylin from 35 to 30 cents a pound; compounds of cellulose known as vulcanized or hard fiber from 35 to 30 per cent.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A. J. Smith and Milton Sadler, workmen, were killed today in a fall from the eighteenth floor of the Alamo National Bank Building, under construction here. They were riding an outside elevator and the cable broke. Four fatalities have occurred in connection with construction of the building.

KING MAY EXPLAIN $2,000 CHECK GIFTS

Contributions From Metz, Dye Importer, Await Explanations.

NOW ILL IN BALTIMORE

(Associated Press.)

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, may appear before the Senate lobby committee to explain two contributions of $1,000 each which Herman A. Metz, New York dye importer, said he made to the senator's campaign fund in 1922 and 1928.

Reporting yesterday to the Senate on the lobby committee's investigation of New York importers, Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, said he had been informed that Mr. King might wish to appear to testify concerning the contributions.

The Utah senator is a member of the Senate finance committee which handles tariff legislation. He has told newspapermen Mr. Metz sent him a check for $1,000 in 1928, but that it was not used and was destroyed, and said he had never heard of a contribution by Mr. Metz in 1922.

Says Secretary Got Check.

Appearing before the committee, Mr. Metz said the 1922 contribution was given to Samuel Russell, former secretary to Senator King, and that the 1928 check had been sent to Mr. King and had not been used.

Mr. Russell testified he had sent the 1922 contribution to Samuel A. King, brother of the senator and his campaign manager in Salt Lake City.

Senator King is now in a Baltimore hospital receiving treatment for a stomach disorder and could not be reached for a statement.

Chairman Caraway, of the lobby committee, said Mr. King had requested to see the testimony when he returns to Washington and that he might possibly wish to appear if there were any testimony he thought should be explained.

Investigation Unfinished.

Mr. Robinson said the committee's report on its investigation into dye importers had been completed, but that it would be held up pending the recovery of Senator King. The report consisted principally of a summary of testimony given by the witnesses to the committee.

In a brief statement to the Senate Mr. Robinson said the National Council of American Importers and Trades, Inc., had "practiced every method of lobbying known" in advocating foreign valuation and lower rates in the tariff bill.

"I have no doubt," he added, "that this organization was formed originaly in order to bring to bear influence in tariff matters."

Embezzlers Denied Clemency.

Lansing, Mich., Feb., 5 (A.P.).—Gov. Fred W. Green late today announced his refusal to grant clemency to three employes of the Union Industrial Bank, of Flint, Mich., who are serving terms in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson for their part in the $3,593,000 defalcation of the bank's funds.

CHICAGO GANGSTERS RUN UP DEATH TOLL

One Dies of Old Wounds as Another Is Shot; Score Now, Seven Dead.

TWO OTHERS MAY DIE

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The mad symphony of gunmen killers played on today with deadly staccato notes. One man was wounded, another died of yesterday's wounds. Score for one week: Seven dead, two hovering on the brink of death.

Phillip Meagher, 35, superintendent for a construction company, stood watching men work on a South Side building. Two men in a small coupe drove near him. Meagher fell with a fusillade of shots in his back. The motive was unknown tonight, but terrorists were suspected.

William Healy, seventh target of gunmen in the week's terror, died in a hospital after naming his assailants—three racketeers. He quarreled with them in a beer flat early yesterday, he said. There two of them shot him.

Officials and police adopted extraordinary patrol measures. The State's attorney ordered his assistants to obtain indictments for gun-toting against any gangsters that could be picked up. Chief Municipal Court Justice Olson urged insanity proceedings to isolate racketeers and gunmen for life.

Four Felt Court's Wrath.

First to feel the wrath of the State's attorney in his attempt to drive gangsters from the metropolis will be Jack McGurn (once accused in the Valentine-day massacre), Danny Stanton, Tony Accardo and Frank Diamond.

The prosecutor said indictments charging them with carrying concealed weapons will be returned as soon as possible.

The only actual murder charges to grow out of the present flare, it appeared, will be lodged against Jack Neville, George "Monk" Campion and Jerry Cotter, the men named by the dying Healey.

Wave Seven Days Old.

The recent crime wave began one week ago, with the shooting of John Genaro, brother of Peppi Genaro, alleged gangster. Genaro still is alive. Next came the killing of Barney Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Cab Co., and Glenn Jackson, cab driver; authors and motive for the crime remain unknown. Next day, Julius Rosenheim, informer and extortionist, fell—shot to death. Another day and the third victim was Joseph (the Dude) Cada, gangster and racketeer. Then Healy, and yesterday Phillip Marchese and Joseph Buckere.

Also today two robbers held up the Hubbard Woods Trust & Savings Bank and escaped with approximately $3,000, and two Negro robbers slugged and probably fatally injured Fred Mayer, 72-year-old owner of a secondhand store, when he resisted holdup.

needs. Their answer was to withdraw still further from society and devote sometimes the entire day to prayer.

Only last December foreclosure proceedings were instituted for possession of the home they occupied. Yesterday the law took its course, as the law must. Two years ago they sold an equity in a house on Columbia road. The check, in excess of $2,000, drawn by a local building and loan association, is still in the possession of Mrs. Johnson—uncashed.

The Rev. George F. Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's and the Incarnation Church, which the two sisters formerly attended, stated that he had known them for years. It was upon his suggestion that they were taken to Gallinger Hospital until such time as provision can be made for a permanent home for them.

Dressed in the styles of twenty years ago, the two sisters made a picturesque, and at the same time pitiful, sight as they were escorted from the house to an awaiting automobile. Neither would divulge their ages, but Dr. Dudley believes that both are well past 65.

Little could be learned of their immediate relatives, although it is understood that they have two sisters and a brother living in the city.

Army Estimates Crosby As Great Disciplinarian

Not a Martinet, But Can Be Hard-Boiled When Necessary, Fellow Officers Say; Makes Men Do Right Thing and Enjoy Doing It.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby is not hard-boiled, but he can be when it is necessary.

That si the Army's estimate of the man President Hoover has selected as District Commissioner in charge of the Police and Fire Departments. And it was that estimate that led the President to pick him for the job.

Gen. Crosby has the reputation of being a great disciplinarian. This, however, does not means that he is a martinet. Under his methods, his fellow officers say, men do the right thing and enjoy doing it.

"He knows how to reward the man who does right," said one of the general's friends, "and he also knows how to punish the one who does wrong."

He is a real leader, his friends say, easy to approach, and possessed of a keen mind. Also, they say, he has a sense of humor and knows how to tell a story.

"He is an all-around man," said one, "and not lop-sided in any direction."

That Gen. Crosby is gracious was evidenced last night when he stopped i nthe middle of a shave to talk to a reporter of The Post.

He said he was "astounded" when he learned that the President wanted him to serve as a Commissioner, an dthat he doesn't know yet how the President came to select him.

Asked about his plans, Gen. Crosby said that for the next month or so he is going to make a study of the District government and acquire at least an abstract knowledge of how it functions.

"But it must be remembered that I still have a job," Gen. Crosby said. "I can't drop it just because I am going to take over another later on."

If it is all right with the War Department, the general said, he will go back to Arizona and continue the tour of inspection he was making when he was suddenly recalled here for a conference with the President. There rae about a half dozen cavalry stations that he wants to visit before he comes back.

Gen. Crosby is no stranger to Washington. He has lived here for eight years, and therefore is fairly familiar with local conditions. In that eight-year period the Police Department frequently has been in turmoil.

Asked about his plans, Gen. Crosby said that for the next month or so he is going to make a study of the District government and acquire at least an abstract knowledge of how it functions.

To say that Gen. Crosby likes riding would be like saying that a fish likes water, for he spent almost all of his Army career in the Cavalry.

A year or so ago Gen. Crosby had a bad spill in Rock Creek Park and was laid up for several days.

"But it was the horse's fault, not mine," he said with a laugh.

Gen. Crosby owns the apartment in which he lives at 2540 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and he said he would continue to live there when he becomes Commissioner.

Mrs. Crosby, who was Miss Catherine Dakin before her marriage in 1902, is a popular member of the Army social set in Washington, and has been in charge of many of the dances given by the Army and Navy League.

The couple have three children—George, Jane and Gordon.

tired and has become a civilian, I shall nominate him as one of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. He has been a resident of the District for the past seven years and has been much interested in its progress. He accepts only at my urgent request.

"I have consulted a number of leading citizens who consider with me that the District will be glad to obtain a man of such outstanding national distinction in its service. Gen. Crosby will have under his direction the police, fire and traffic services. He does not wish to become presiding Commissioner, and prefers to devote himself to those particular branches. His headship of those departments will be assurance of just support and leadership to the men in those services. It will be a guarantee to both the official and unofficial residents of the District and especially to the Nation at large, that the Capital of the Nation shall be free of organized crime."

Failed to Take Counsel.

The President followed none of the usual counsels on District appointments in selecting Gen. Crosby. There is no doubt either but that the general had to be persuaded to take the job.

Two members of Congress, a senator and a representative, who figure most intimately with District affairs in Congress and the first to receive the local grievances and squabbles, had both made it known that they would like to be consulted. Neither one, however, was consulted. This is believed largely to have been due to the fact that the selection did not originate or develop through Walter Newton, political secretary to the President.

Instead, Secretary George Akerson is believed to have conceived the idea of a military man for the place and Gen. Crosby in particular. The general lives next door to him, and Akerson has a high regard for his disciplinary capabilities.

General Is Disciplinarian.

The general has spent all of his life in the Army and is a noted disciplinarian, but his friends say that he is of that type that obtains discipline through leadership rather than the command.

There is a question of whether he will continue to receive his $6,000 retirement pay in addition to the $9,000 a year salary as District Commissioner.

The law regarding the appointment of District Commissioners reads that "the two Commissioners appointed from civil life shall at the time of their appointment be citizens of the United States and shall have been actual residents of the District of Columbia for three years next before their appointment and during that period claimed residence nowhere else.

Obtained Mitchell's Ruling.

Gen. Crosby has resided here for the past eight years, but there is a question as to whether he will be a civilian when he retires. He will still be amenable to Army discipline. The President obtained a ruling from Attorney General Mitchell, however, that Gen. Crosby's appointment would be within the letter of the law.

Undoubtedly, the President expects the general to be more aggressive than has been considered to be the province of District commissioners heretofore. There has been frequent complaint that their authority was so limited as to make them virtually rubber-stamps for Congress.

But Gen. Crosby at least, will be expected to prevent a recurrence of such a situation as recently occurred within the Police Department when it was the subject of wild discussion almost daily in Congress. It was during this period that Washington was labelled as a crime-ridden city, mostly by Senator Blease, of South Carolina.

Trade organizations and citizens groups have since vigorously protested such charges, contending that the city was far above the average in lawfulness.

To Succeed Dougherty.

Some of these civic groups have also protested against the appointment of a military man as Commissioner but presumably Mr. Hoover is prepared to take the bit in his teeth on the matter.

The President's concern for the city is believed to be prompted not only by his twelve years residence here but also because of the manner in which he has embraced the prohibition problem. It chafed him when he took his determined stand for law enforcement to have the mockers retort with ridicule that liquor violations were rampant right here in the Capital itself. It was embarrassing.

Gen. Crosby will succeed Commissioner Dougherty. In the meantime the search will be continued for a successor to Commissioner Taliaferro. Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, will take the place if the President can not find anyone else suitable.

Veteran Virginia Senate Aid Expires

D. M. Pattie, Who Fought in Civil War, Had Been in Failing Health.

Gordonsville, Va., Feb. 5. — D. M. Pattie, 84, assistant doorkeeper of the State Senate and the last Confederate veteran to be connected with the upper branch of the General Assembly, died this morning at 12:15 o'clock, death resulting from hemorrhage.

Mr. Pattie's health had been on the decline for some time past, but it had not prevented his daily attendance at Senate sessions until on Thursday last, when he complained of being unwell and returned to his home. Mr. Pattie was for years the informal representative of the Confederate veterans in the State capitol and was a strong petitioner for increased pensions for veterans and their dependents.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 1 p. m. by the Rev. M. Moser, pastor of the Madison Methodist Church, and the interment will be in the cemetery there with Masonic honors.

JURYLESS RUM TRIAL FLAYED IN CONGRESS

Celler to Quiz Wickersham Today on Reversal by Appellate Court.

WILLIAMSON BILL IS DUE

The case of a Washington Negro who was accused of reckless driving assumed national importance yesterday when Representative Celler (Democrat), New York, announced that he would cite it today in fighting the proposal of the Wickersham Commission to try cases of minor liquor violations without a jury.

A decision of the Court of Appeals here in the case of William H. Colts, who was accused fo reckless driving, has destroyed the force of the Wickersham proposal, Representative Celler said.

"Colt was tried in the Police Court without a jury and was convicted," Cellar said. "He appealed on the ground that the Police Court judge had no power to refuse him a trial by jury, regardless of the offense he had committed, since his liberty was jeopardized.

Appeals Court Ruling.

"The Court of Appeals held that reckless driving is not a petty offense, and for that reason a jury trial could not be denied, and furthermore held that Congress had no power in such a case to deny the right of trial by jury, since the third article of the Constitution guaranteed that right.

"Reckless driving or similar violations of the District traffic law, from the standpoint of punishment and fine, is a crime and not a misdemeanor.

"From analogy it can be argued that a liquor violation involving six months' imprisonment or $500 fine, or both, is just as serious as this violation of the traffic law. We have high authority for the opinion that the right of trial by jury is sacred and can not for transient reasons, be ligetly set aside.

To Question Wickersham.

"As a member of the committee on the judiciary, before which Chairman Wickersham and Dean Pound will appear tomorrow, I shall ask some pointed questions about the Colts case and endeavor to have them reconcile the decision of the Court of Appeals wit hthe recommendations of their commission."

The Williamson bill to transfer the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department will be put before the House today. Republican leaders expect it to pass not later than Saturday.

Chief opposition to the bill has been based on a provision which makes the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Treasury jointly responsible for regulations governing industrial alcohol permits.

DISMISSAL OF FLYNN SLATED FOR TODAY

Doran States Official Action Removing Aid Under Fire Is to Be Taken.

HERBERT, BORAH CONFER

The dismissal of Capt. Frank S. Flynn, Prohibition Bureau clerk, now under suspension as a result of his failure to report for duty at the Baltimore office last Monday, will become effective either today or tomorrow. Commissioner James M. Doran, of the prohibition unit, stated yesterday that official action to drop Capt. Flynn from the rolls will be taken some time today.

It was pointed out that Capt. Flynn's case is fully covered by civil service rules, which state that employes suspended shall be given a reasonable time in which to answer any charges filed against them, but the rebuttal must be made in writing and the decision of the reviewing or officer empowered with the power of dismissal shall be final.

As a result of competitive examination, Capt. Flynn was appointed an administrative clerk in the Denver office of the Veterans' Bureau. The commission further states that on February 13, 1928, he was transferred to the Prohibition Bureau, but at a lower gride, that of general routine clerk.

Col. John F. J. Herbert, administrator for the Montana-Idaho district, against whom Capt. Flynn made his sensational charges through Senators Borah and Wheeler, is still in Washington and will remain here on leave for several days.

Col. Herbert called upon Senator Borah, Tuesday, and those with their ear closest to the ground in and around the Capitol say that while the Idaho senator is just as antagonistic as ever toward the Prohibition Bureau, in general, it is believed that he is beginning to discount some of the charges, if not all, lodged against the former district administrator.

Pistol Carrying Is Laid To Methodist Minister

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 5.—Armed enmity said to exist between a pastor and a faction of his flock today resulted in the arrest of the Rev. W. B. Neal, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at Meadowville near Philippi, on a charge of carrying a revolver. He was held for a hearing tomorrow before Magistrate Luke Boyles, at Philippi.

The weapon is said to have been found in the minister's pocket when he and the Rev. Arley J. Walton, district superintendent of the church, called at the home of E. C. Moore, a church trustee. Mr. Moore swore out the warrant against him.

WOMEN OFFER PLEA FOR SHIP CUT TODAY

Feminine Representatives of Four Nations to Meet Premier MacDonald.

SOCIAL ROUND PLANNED

London, Feb. 5 (A.P.). — Women representing four nations were preparing tonight to tell the diplomats who are tangled in the mazes of the five-power naval conference that women the world over want naval armaments reduced.

Feminine delegates from the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France will present memorials asking "actual reductions in navies so as to make peace effective," to Ramsay MacDonald at St. James' Palace tomorrow morning. He in turn will inform the full conference of the women's assurance that they are fully backing the delegates of their countries in the effort to obtain a five-power agreement for naval reductions.

While these representatives of the organized womanhood of four countries were sorting over the huge petitions which they have brought to London, the wives and daughters of the naval delegates were preparing to spend tomorrow at Windsor Castle under the guidance of Ishbel MacDonald.

Will See Historic Spots.

The premier's daughter will assume the role of personal guide for the American women as well as for Signora Grandi of Italy, Mme. Pietrie of France and Lady Takarabe of Japan. She will show them the royal residence and also Eton College and other points of interest in the countryside. She also will be hostess at a luncheon given in a quaint little inn at Windsor.

The representatives of women's clubs had their taste of historical Britain today in a reception given in their honor at the British Meseum. Mrs. Lawrence Binyon, wife of the deputy keeper of the museum, was hostess, and among her guests were Mrs. Edgerton Parsons, Miss Josephine Schein and Mrs. Caspar Whitney, Americans; Mrs. Marjorie Ashby, British; Mrs. Tsune Gauntlett, Japanese, and Mlle. Marie Redier, French. Members of the British Women's Peace Crusade were invited in a group to meet these guests.

Later in the evening both the clubwomen and the wives of naval delegates met at the government's second official reception since the conference opened.

Luncheon Planned Friday.

At this affair A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, with his wife and daughter, received the members of all delegations as well as important British officials and prominent unofficial visitors in London. The reception was held at the old and impressive Admiralty House and the scene was one of great splendor, in which chic women and well-groomed diplomats mingled in a hall where many of England's most impressive receptions have been held.

On Friday Miss Edith Sankey, sister of the lord chancellor, will give a luncheon in honor of Mmes. Stimson, Reed and Alexander, Signora Grandi and Ishbel MacDonald. The women members of Parliament will attend.

Lady Londonderry, one of the capital's most prominent hostesses, today announced that she would give a reception for the delegates and their wives on February 19.

FULL SUBMARINE DISCUSSION SLATED TUESDAY AT LONDON

self and saying that everything must be held up for consideration and "reference." M. Tardieu's hearers understood him to mean that the American delegation is hampered by the necessity of referring everything to Washington.

The American version of the situation is rather that M. Tardieu is trying to get Mr. Stimson to commit himself on the French desire to make a deal on the category question in exchange for freedom of transfer between categories, which the Americans and British alike are opposing.

The American-Japanese situation today was the subject of various misleading articles printed both in the United States and France. From both Japanese and American sources I understand that these negotiations are yet in the earliest stages, largely for the reason that at yesterday's two-hour meeting of the Americans and Japanese cruiser ratios were not mentioned.

Japan Rebuffs Reduction Plan.

This was because earlier British attempts to get the Japanese to recede from their claim to 70 per cent of America's big cruiser tonnage had been rebuffed and particularly because former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki had told MacDonald that Japan would in any case make no concession until after the Japanese elections on February 21.

The Americans and the Japanese, therefore, discussed only battleships and submarines. Mr. Stimson found himself in accord with the Japanese—no power here disagrees—on the principle of not replacing any battleships until 1936, but there was difficulty when the Americans invoked the 5-5-3 ratio fixed by the Washington conference of 1921-22.

In order to maintain the 5-5-3 ratio in battleships the American idea is that Great Britain should scrap five battleships, the United States three and Japan two before 1936. This would alter the ratios of the Washington treaty, where scrapping is based on assumed replacements. The British show no enthusiasm for the American ratio, and the Japanese, who are now asked to scrap two battleships in the next six years, would prefer scrapping one and are understood to have asked Tokyo for instructions.

Triple Parity in Submarines.

On the submarine question there is understood to be a tentative understanding between Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald that it would be a good thing if the submarine ratio were reduced so as to place Great Britain, the United States and Japan on a parity basis in this type of craft.

This would result in the United States accepting roughly a little less than the British figures, about 60,000 tons of submarines, involving American reduction. The Japanese at the same time were asked by Stimson to cut their 78,000 tons of submarines to 60,000.

The Japanese, without committing themselves, said they would ask Tokyo. I understand an element of unreality in the American-Japanese talk was an absence of mention by either side of cruisers.

Submarine Decision Sudden.

When the Big Five met this evening their decision to hold a plenary session Tuesday to take up the submarine question was a general surprise. Since everybody knows that Great Britain and the United States wish to abolish these ships and the others do not, there was much speculation as to the reason for airing these differences in public. A French source cleared up this puzzling question as follows:

The program is for the British and American delegates to make speeches advocating abolition, and then for France to explain why submarines are necessary, but to attempt to place France in a favorable position before public opinion in all countries by M. Tardieu introducing a series of resolutions limiting the use of submarines in warfare and disclaiming any intention to sink mercantile ships without warning.

After these speeches the whole question will be referred to the committee of the whole.

The delegates of the British Dominion met today and decided the conference is proceeding too slowly. They made representations to this effect to Mr. MacDonald through Prof. Smiddy, high commissioner of the Irish Free State. Mr. MacDonald agreed, but explained the difficulties in the way of more rapid progress. M. Tardieu, as stated above, is inclined to place blame for this on the Americans.

No authoritative American delegate would reply directly, but it was gathered that the American view is that slow progress is due to the French desire to talk about absolute naval needs and abstract formulae and not get down to figures.

One amusing feature of the present situation is the enthusiasm of the Italians, who until yesterday felt themselves isolated. They have refused all along to discuss anything until figures were produced and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, indicated tonight that they now feel that their attitude, although differently expressed, is identical with that of the American delegations. Grandi intimated that the United States and Italy are now arrayed as to method and procedure against France.

It was authoritatively stated that stories printed today of Anglo-American agreements presented to Japan on battleship ratios and other subjects do not exist and represent uninformed speculation.

HOOVER MAKES PLEA FOR CHEST ON RADIO

President Shows Spiritual Side of Organization in Drive Appeal.

CAMPAIGN ENDS TODAY

charity are the tests of spiritual development of men and women and communities. At this time when we attach so much importance to material and economic success, we place great emphasis on the idea of greater comfort, the possession of riches, and we too often overlook the necessity for stimulated spiritual development. The Community Chest has come to stand for this spiritual development of a community.

Speaks as District Citizen.

"I should like to speak as a citizen of the District. The Capital City of the Nation should lead both in the evidence of acceptance of its obligations to the less fortunate and in devotion to spiritual development. I suggest that the time has arrived in this appeal when every citizen in the District should give some evidence of his devotion to charitable purpose, no matter how small, and that those who have already given should review their gifts to be sure they have been extended to the utmost they can afford."

Following President Hoover's address, Frederic A. Delano, president of the Chest, outlined the history of the formation of the organization in Washington and recited the splendid record it had made in its first year of operation.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, the next speaker, expressed pleasure that President Hoover had seen fit to stress the spiritual significance of the Community Chest campaign. He declared that the Chest leads to the solidarity of the community and said that the church could not afford not to cooperate in a movement which means so much for all humanity.

Failure Termed Disaster.

"To fail to raise this fund," he declared, "would be a disaster. I feel that Washington should set the pace for the entire country in its method of taking care of those who need assistance of the organizations embraced in the Community Chest."

In conclusion, Bishop Freeman offered a motion, which was carried, that all of those present constitute themselves as the advisory committee for the special gifts committee.

The collections reported yesterday at the daily report meeting at the Willard Hotel amounted to only $72,297.45, bringing the total collected thus far to $1,183,296.96, or about $603,000 less than the goal which must be reached by tonight. The collections yesterday were reported as follows: Special gifts committee, $11,200; group solicitation committee, $8,903.53, and metropolitan unit, $53,183.92.

Naval Officer's Request.

A high naval officer in a letter to The Post yesterday sought information as to how he might contribute directly to the Community Chest, explaining that:

"Last year in my absence a solicitor came to my abode and left a form for subscription which reminded me of an income tax blank. As I had been in the habit for some years of contributing modest amounts to several of the organizations concerned, I filled out this blank. The instructions from the solicitor as reported to me were not to send it by mail, but to wait until it was called for. After three months it was still uncalled for, an accidentally landed in the waste basket.

"So far this year my solicitor, whoever he or she may be, has not located me. I read the papers and have tried to find out the name and address of the organization or person to whom I could send a modest check and be done with it without the intervention of a solicitor. I am a great believer in printer's ink and the United States postoffice. May I venture to ask that you will publish instructions as to how contributions may be made direct? Surely there are other people in my position."

Instructions to Donors.

Inquiry at the headquarters of the Community Chest brought the information that all any contributor, who has not been reached by a solicitor, needs do to contribute to the fund is to send a check addressed to the Community Chest at 1418 I street northwest.

Any contributor who prefers to have a solicitor call for the contribution may telephone to Elwood Sweet, director of the chest, at Metropolitan 2284, and a solicitor will be sent with report cards on which the contributor may indicate the amount he wishes to pledge, the manner in which it is preferred to pay the contribution, and whether the contribution is to be designated to any particular ones of the 75 organizations supported through the Chest.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 4.

When husband and wife, living together, file separate returns, either may claim the exemption of $3,500 or they may divide it between them, the husband, for example, claiming $1,000 and the wife $2,500.

Many errors have occurred in the returns of couples married during the taxable year. The revenue act provides that if the marital status of a taxpayer changes during the year, his personal exemption shall be determined by apportionment in accordance with the number of months he was single or married. For example, a couple married on October 14 may file a joint return and claim an exemption of $3,125, which is nine-twelfths of $1,500, or $1,125 for the husband, while single, plus nine-twelfths of $1,500 for the wife while single, plus three-twelfths of $3,500 for the period during which they were married. Should they file separate returns, each is entitled to an exemption of $1,562.50, which is nine-twelfths of $1,500, plus one-half of three-twelfths of $3,500.

A similar provision applies to the head of a family. A taxpayer who on October 14 ceased to be the head of a family—the support in one household of a relative or relatives being discontinued—is entitled to an exemption of $3,000, which is nine-twelfths of $3,500, plus three-twelfths of $1,500.

With respect to the $400 credit for a dependent, the taxpayer's status as of the last day of the taxable year determines this credit. If his support of such dependent ceases before the end of the year, he is not entitled to this credit.

JILTED SWEETHEART SHOOTS GIRL, SELF

no headway by his pleading, drew the gun and fired shots in quick succession. Five bullets took effect in the girl's body, two in the abdomen, two in the left arm, and one in the face below the left eye. One of the shots cut off her right thumb.

The sixth shot passed over the girl's falling body and lodged in the right hip of Miss Vera Bauer, who, with Miss Mark Kranich, was crossing Madison avenue. Then Arana turned the gun and fired two shots into his own head and fell upon the body of Miss Carballo.

The crowd scurried for shelter as the sharp reports rang out.

The police learned that Miss Carballo and Arana had been sweethearts but that she had rejected him for another man. In Arana's pocket was found the receipt for a ring and a sealed letter to Miss Carballo.

At Arana's home his landlady said that he was a window washer and that he had expected to be married soon.

sale." Miss Salazar quoted Earle. "Your sister Rosie, the little spitfire, scratched my face. I'm kicked out like a dog."

Several letters, one of which was alleged to have been written by Earle to the girl's father, were read. The letter to the father said in part "I could have scores of beautiful girls, but I want Dolores for marriage." The other letters were addressed to Miss Salazar.

"Darling, one is silenced by such happiness as you give me tonight. One is awed. It would make an athiest need to pray to God. It would make a brass monkey walk up telegraph poles," one letter, written December 19, 1926, said.

Earle, who was married two years ago, now lives in Paris with his fifth wife. He will testify by deposition. Pending the result of the suit Miss Salazar's attorneys have attached Earle's Hollywood property.

PAIR IN M'PHERSON QUIZ HELD IN ASSAULT

indictment was later found to be void and a second inquiry resulted in his exoneration.

Mr. and Mrs. Heavrin testified that they heard voices in the McPherson apartment on the night Mrs. McPherson met her death. They told of hearing a woman plead, "Don't for God's sake, don't do that," and mention a man's name. Mrs. Heavrin appeared before the grand jury three times, each time declaring she had additional testimony to give. Heavrin and his wife refused to testify in the departmental trial of Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, who were accused of "bungling" the police investigation of the McPherson case.

bruises, they said, appeared to have been made by human fingers, supporting the contention of the Fischer family that, when Aurelia plunged 20 feet from a balcony at the boat club to a landing platform below, her fall was the result of a push, and not an accident, as held by the coroner's jury.

Freda Fischer and Mrs. Elsa Knorr, sisters of Mrs. Dreyfus, also told of seeing three long scratches on the left side of Aurelia's throat as she lay on a cot at Emergency Hospital a short time before her death. These scratches, the witnesses declared, appeared to have been made by finger nails. Mrs. Knorr stated that she had called the attention of Milburn W. Zirkle, the undertaker, to these scratches and asked him to be particularly careful to eradicate them from her sister's throat so that they would not be evident to mourners at the funeral.

Two Deaths Are Linked.

Mrs. Carl Fischer, Aurelia's mother, linked the death of her daughter closely with the Dot King case, and declared that not only had the girl told her of being forced to swear to a false alibi for Guimares, but had told her also that "there was an awful lot of money spent to keep that case quiet."

The witness testified further that throughout the day of the fatal dance McBrien had been extremely abusive to her daughter. Freda and William, Aurelia's sister and brother, who had accompanied her to the dance, also told the jury that McBrien's abuse of their sister had continued throughout the evening, and that shortly before the tragedy they had engaged in an argument with McBrien in resentment of his treatment of Aurelia.

Lieut. Walter Hourigan, chief of the Broadway homicide squad of the New York Police Department, and Sergt. Joseph Fitzgerald, also a member of the squad, who were brought here from New York by Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw to relate their knowledge of McBrien's life and his relationship with Mrs. Dreyfus, were not called into the jury room yesterday, but are scheduled to be heard at 11 o'clock this morning.

New Chicago Witness.

After today's session ends, it is expected that the investigation will be suspended for a few days while efforts are made to locate and bring to Washington several important witnesses who, it is believed, will be able to shed considerable light upon the theory, advanced by relatives of the dead girl, that her death may have been the result of her intimate knowledge of the "inside story" of the King murder.

Information was received from Chicago yesterday that James E. Dowd, former head of a Chicago brokerage house and intimate friend of McBrien, stated that he would be "only too glad" to come to Washington and appear before the grand jury in its investigation of Mrs. Dreyfus' death. He is quoted as saying that "I will conceal nothing or protect no one," and intimating that his six-year acquaintance with Mrs. Dreyfus had given him considerable information as to the manner of her death.

It is extremely unlikely that Dowd will be given a free trip to Washington, however. Mr. Burkinshaw is having his story investigated thoroughly by Chicago authorities, and apparently is of the opinion that anything Dowd might say if brought here probably would not affect the final verdict of the grand jury.

Dr. E. J. Schwartz Honored.

Dr. Edward J. Schwartz, assistant health officer, yesterday was designated by the District Commissioners to represent the District at the annual congress on medical education and medical licensure and hospitals which is to be held in Chicago February 17.

PAROLE FOR DR. COOK IN MARCH IS URGED

Erstwhile Explorer Served Five Years on Charge of Mails Misuse.

FIRST PLEA REJECTED

(Associated Press.)

Once again will Frederick A. Cook be a free man, if the recommendation of the Federal parole board yesterday that he be released from prison on March 5 is approved by Attorney General Mitchell.

Through his own false claim, the one-time explorer years ago was widely credited with having discovered the North Pole. Since April, 1925, he has been in the Leavenworth Penitentiary on a fourteen year and eight month sentence for misuse of the mails in promoting oil stock. He is about 65 years old, and the proposed parole would be granted on the day he becomes eligible.

Dr. Cook, who startled the world with a claim that he had reached the North Pole, which subsequently was disproved, was convicted in Fort Worth, Tex., of misuse of the mails in his oil schemes. The Government charged that he had obtained approximately $375,000 through sale of worthless oil stocks. In addition to the sentence, he was fined $12,000.

Dr. Cook appealed his case and was held in jail for fourteen months before the sentence was affirmed and he began serving it. He was not allowed time off his sentence for those months.

The explorer once tried to get the sentence commuted, but the application was rejected last March by President Hoover. The prisoner then appeared before the parole board at the prison early in January.

Before the recommendation can become effective the Department of Justice must get the approval of Judge Killetts, the prosecuting attorney and other officials concerned in the trial. This procedure makes it unlikely that Dr. Cook will know the Attorney General's decision on the recommendation for at least a month.

Chance Tells Northwest What $20,000 Really Is

C. D., Disguised as "Mountie," Combs Whole Section Ferreting Out Families Who Need Radios, and Autos Offered in The Post's Campaign.

A horse galloped madly down Pennsylvania avenue and reared to a stop before the office of The Washington Post. From its back dismounted a red-jacketed figure suddenly revealed as C. D. Chance in the garb of the Northwest Mounted Police.

"We always get our man," he proudly announced as he greeted Old Man Opportunity. "I've been in the Northwest section of the city today and have secured a number of new candidates for The Post $20,000 Opportunity Campaign. Come and have a little cuckoo coffee with me and I'll tell you all about it."

"Cuckoo coffee?" echoed Joe.

"Sure," answered Chance, "weak in the bean. I'm afraid strong coffee might keep me awake."

"Two cups of strong coffee," ordered Opportunity as they stepped up to the counter.

"Well," began Chance, when they had seated themselves, "people in the Northwest section are certainly interested in this campaign. I spoke to a youngster on the street today and asked him why he wasn't in school. 'I got suspended,' he replied, 'because Daddy gave me the wrong answer to how much $20,000 was!'

"What did he tell you?" I asked, and he replied, 'A whale of a lot.'"

"That's true," said Opportunity, "but probably not sufficiently definite to satisfy the requirements of pedagogy."

"I told the lad to go back and tell his teacher that $20,000 was twelve automobiles and sixteen radios," resumed Chance, "so I imagine he is now back at his desk."

"Sheerluck Bones, my police dog, was with me all day," he continued, "and it was really marvelous how he discovered families that are in need of a new automobile. As we came to a driveway he would peer eagerly at the ground and when he found a number of nuts and bolts, cotter pins and great splotches of oil, he would curve his tail in a beckoning gesture and invariably I would find an eager candidate who welcomed the 'Chance' to secure a brand-new 1930 automobile without a penny of cost."

"Didn't you overlook the many families who might desire a new radio?" asked Opportunity.

"Oh, no," replied C. D. Chance. "You see, we started out at 8:15 and whenever we came to a house where 'Breakfast Brevities' could not be heard being broadcast for The Post, we, of course, knew that the family must be in need of a radio."

Just then a cat attracted attention by rubbing against Opportunity's leg, and with a sly wink toward the sign, "No Dogs Allowed," revealed itself, beneath false whiskers as "Sherlock Bones." In the dog's eyes was an expression that said, "Father, dear father, come home with me now," and, so, with a remark that sounded like "ten nights in a barroom is equal to one hour in a speak-easy," Chance assisted his companion to his feet and out the door.

Passengers, Crew Hurt in Sea Storm

Veendam Reaches Halifax, Delayed Three Days by Storm.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—With five members of her crew and two passengers injured, the Holland-American liner Veendam arrived here today, three days overdue from Rotterdam to New York after battling one of the severest storms on record.

On January 30, the Veendam encountered a storm described by her skipper, Capt. R. W. Braun, as a hurricane. T. V. A. Lagemaat, returning to Ladner, B. C., described a night of anxiety in the third class section after the hatch had collapsed. Sixty persons were trapped in the smoking room, he said, when ropes and gear blocked the passageway. In the dining saloon water stood 4 feet high, with tables and chairs afloat.

Women and children shrieked in terror as passengers waded up to their knees in icy water, while the big vessel was tossed like a cork by the furious sea, Mr. Lagemaat related.

Keeping Posted

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Because a motorist once supplies the traffic office with his name, address and other information incident to obtaining a permit to drive, his obligation does not end there. The regulations require him to keep that information up to date.

The District traffic code provides that in the event of a change of address, the holder of an operator's permit must notify the director of traffic of the new address "within a reasonable time."

Example: A driver who holds a District operator's permit moves to another address and fails to notify the authorities, believing that it is sufficient to give his correct place of residence if it is demanded of him. He has violated the regulations, however, and is liable to a fine.

Soviet Agreement Passes.

London, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The House of Commons today adopted a resolution calling for a commercial agreement between Great Britain and Soviet Russia soon.

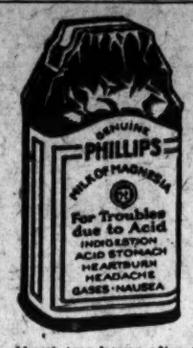
Protest on Norris' Race Withdrawn

Nebraskan Is Criticized, However, for Persisting on G. O. P. Ticket.

Lincoln, Nebr., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Willard Clapp, of Elmwood, today withdrew a protest he filed January 18 against the certification of Senator George W. Norris as a candidate for reelection on the Republican ticket in the State primaries.

In his communication to Secretary of State Marsh, Clapp explained he had made the protest to call Norris' attention to the specific statutory provision covering affiliation with a political party and to give Norris an opportunity to demonsrtate his "much heralded political honesty" by withdrawing from the Republican party and filing as an independent candidate.

"Senator Norris has offended thousands and disappointed hundreds of men and women who had heretofore admired him for independence by refusing to withdraw as a Republican and file as an independent," Clapp wrote.



When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

SUPERVISORS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

Fairfax County Chiefs Make Arrangements for Joint Bureau Purchases.

ENGINEER'S PAY RAISED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The Board of Supervisors of Fairfax County held its regular monthly meeting yesterday. The greater portion of the morning session was spent in checking the accounts of the various departments of the county. A resolution was adopted which will make county engineer, F. Novell Larkin, the purchasing agent for all offices in the county, exclusive of the school board, which maintains its own purchasing department. All stationery, equipment and supplies must be purchased through his office and can be had by various departments on requisitions. He was also authorized to repaint the interior of the courthouse and to make certain changes, including the purchasing of new chairs for the jury in the courtroom. The board voted Mr. Larkin a $400 a year increase in salary.

A resolution was passed by the board which reads: It has been brought to the attention of the board that a great amount of typing, accounting and bookkeeping in the county engineer's, treasurer's and clerk's office would be eliminated if the balances in the various districts and bonds issue and maintenance and gas tax road accounts were transferred to the county road fund and the county engineer could handle the road work in a more efficient manner, and that the chance of error would be greatly reduced if this were done. It is not necessary to hold the said balances in the district and bond issue maintenance and gas tax accounts, as the county engineer is required by law to file with the bord of supervisors the expenditures on each and every road during the year ending June 30, enabling the funds levied in each of the several districts for local road purposes to be expended in the district where levied. It is, therefore, ordered that more warrants be drawn in the following amounts from the various districts and bond issue maintenance and gas account to be placed in the county road fund, as follows: From Centerville district, $540.50; Dranesville, $193.67; Falls Church, $8,309.15; Lee, $1,187.92; Mount Vernon, $1,558.65; Providence, $385.60, and out of the general district accounts in Dranesville district, $807.89; Falls Church, $84.68; Mount Vernon, $727.45; also that further warrants be drawn by the board at such future times as there may be balances in the above accounts; the amounts levied locally in each district to be accounted for and expended solely for road purposes in the district where they are levied."

Dr. A. E. Terrell, of the Children's Home Society of Virginia, appeared before the board and explained the purposes and aims of the society. He asked the board to support this work by including $250 in the budget during the coming year.

Dr. Roy K. Flannigan, of the State health department, appeared before the board to answer questions in regard to county health work. The supervisors interrogated him at length on the question of hog-raising and the feeding of garbage as being a nuisance and a menace to public health. Dr. Flannigan assured the board that the county health unit would do everything possible to abate the alleged menace and would make a personal investigation himself. It was also brought out before the meeting that persons were criticizing the health unit for devoting too much time to school clinics. Dr. Flannigan explained this by pointing out that the point of contact to the homes was throught the schools.

Merton E. Church, aerial estate dealer at Falls Church, appeared before the board asking to put on record a plan of a subdivision for colored residents, which is a part of the old Southgate property, which was laid off in 1901 and sold to colored people, but had, for some reason, not been recorded. It did not comply with the present regulations of the board, but inasmuch as practically all of the lots had been sold and built upon, the board granted permission.

County Treasurer F. W. Huddleson made a report of the dog fund account for 1929, showing that $11,446.17 was collected, of which 15 per cent was paid to the State and to persons for stock.

Out of the State refunds for gas tax for the month of December, $710.82 was ordered credited to the district road funds for each district. A telegram was sent to State Senator Frank Ball and Delegate Leon L. Freeman, from this district, by the supervisors urging them to oppose any measure before that body, whose committees held a joint hearing yesterday, opposing any reduction of the gas tax funds for this county.

The supervisors authorized the county engineer to take into the county system that portion of the road into Burke described in the petition filed with the supervisors some time ago.

The next meeting of the board will be held on Monday, March 3, at which time public hearings will be held in regard to the proposed county budget for the coming year.

The reports of the county traffic officers shows that Carl McIntosh made two arrests, fines amounted to $30 and fees $2. Louis L. Finks made nine arrests, fines $55 and fees $6. A. W. Mills, nine arrests, fines $70 and fees $7. Capt. Haywood J. Durrer made no arrests. The fees were turned over to the county treasurer to be placed to the county police fund.

The Fairfax Garden Club will meet today at the home of Mrs. Walter Tansil Oliver in Fairfax. Miss Margaret Lancaster, of Georgetown, will address the meeting. Plans will be made at this time for a flower show to be held some time this spring.

The Ladies Guild of the St. Paul's Chapel at Baileys Cross Road will be held at the home of Mrs. T. L. O'Shaughnessy this afternoon.

Miss Sara E. Thomas, county home demonstrator agent, will meet with the Annandale 4-H Club this morning, and in the afternoon she will give a demonstration on the preparation of school lunches to the members of the Annandale Home Demonstration Club.

The Fairfax County School Board will meet in regular business session today, at which time selection of a county school mechanic will be made.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Church at Annandale will go to Lincolnia tonight to take charge of the midweek prayer services.

The missionary society and study class of the Methodist Church at Fairfax will hold their meeting this afternoon.

Rev. George Conner, of the Crossman's Methodist Church at Falls Church will speak on "My Class Problems and How to Solve Them" at a conference of the Sunday School teachers of the Columbia Baptist Church tonight at the home of Guy Erwin at Falls Church.

The Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Falls Church will meet today with Mrs. Carrol V. Shreve. The assistant hostesses will be Miss Bertie Burne and Miss W. F. Earman.

At the meeting of the Andrew Chapel School and Community League tonight in the school house Wilber T. Woodson, county superintendent of schools, is scheduled to make an address on "Better Schools for Fairfax County." A program will be given by the pupils under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Day and Mrs. Oliver.

Post Cooking School Plans Stir Housewives' Interest

Husbands, Too, Welcome Announcement of Culinary Sessions at Belasco Theater During Four Days Next Week; Gifts Will Be Awarded.

News that The Washington Post is to conduct a cooking school at the Belasco Theater for four days next week is creating interest in thousands of homes in Washington and nearby sections. Many housewives, according to reports reaching The Post, view the coming lectures as an opportunity to learn how to improve the task of arranging different, tasty and economical meals.

Husbands, too, are heartily in favor of the cooking school, being enthusiastic believers in better and cheaper meals. One of the aims of Mrs. Frances Northcross, who will conduct the school, will be to help housewives in menu planning, marketing, budgeting, child feeding and labor saving devices. She will also stress charm and beauty in home appointments.

Those attending the lectures will be invited to place their problems before Mrs. Northcross and she will endeavor to solve them. For this reason all women planning to attend the school are advised to bring along paper and pencil.

The sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock. Doors of the Belasco Theater will be open at 1 o'clock for the benefit of those wishing to come early. Mrs. Northcross will prepare dishes each day, and the recipes will be distributed to the audience. Food products prescribed in the course will be distributed each day. These will be donated by local merchants.

On the final day of the school a large assortment of household gifts will be awarded.

Utility Will Build New Power Plant

Petersburg Unit Will Cost $185,000; 1930 Program Totals $4,800,000.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 5.—The board of directors of the Virginia Electric & Power Co at a meeting held in New York City yesterday decided to construct a new hydroelectric plant near Petersburg which is to cost about $185,000.

The new plant will probably be located on a site on the Appomattox River a few miles west of Petersburg. Power production units of the Virginia Electric & Power Co. in Petersburg now includes the locks power station and the Harville Station. The local system also is tied up with the high power transmission lines extending from Richmond to Norfolk and also the Roanoke Rapids line.

The directors voted an immediate construction program for the system amounting to $4,800,000. Other constructions contemplated, but not yet approved, will raise the total budget of the company this year to between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000.

Former Governor Of Texas Reburied

Peter Bell's Remains Are Carried to Austin From North Carolina.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Feb. 5.—A ceremony of interest to many both in Virginia and Texas took place Tuesday afternoon when the remains of the late Gov. Peter Bell of Texas were, after being disinterred at Littleton, N. C., reinterred in the Texas State Cemetery at Austin, Tex.

The exercises, which were the result of a joint resolution passed by the Texas Legislature, were held in the hall of the House of Representatives at Austin, the Legislature attending them in a body.

Gov. Bell was a brother of the late Judge John W. Bell, of the Virginia courts, and uncle of Judge Alden Bell, of Culpeper. Born and reared in Culpeper County he early went to Texas, and volunteering in the Texas war for independence from Mexico, fought with the famous Sam Houston, also from Virginia, at the noted battle of San Jacinto, where he was severely wounded. It was here that the great Mexican general, Santa Anna was defeated and taken prisoner and which resulted in the independence of Texas, it then becoming a republic, and afterward being admitted as a State in the American Union.

A unique feature of the occasion was the reading of the funeral oration, which was originally delivered by his nephew, Judge Alden Bell, at the first burial of his body at Littleton. The exercises attracted an immense audience, the governor being highly esteemed by the people of the "Lone Star State."

Ozlin to Address Forestry Meeting

Former Delegate Slated to Speak at Richmond Conference.

Thomas W. Ozlin, of Kenbridge, and Dr. Gustavus J. Esselen, jr., Boston scinetist, have been added to the list of speakers for the first Virginia commercial forestry conference, to be held in Richmond under the auspices of the State Chamber of Commerce on February 11 and 12. Mr. Ozlin is a former speaker of the House of Delegates and Dr. Esselen is engaged in projects looking to the chemical utilization of waste wood.

Mr. Ozlin is to speak on "A State Forest Program for Virginia," and Dr. Esselen's subject is "The Chemist Looks at the Wood Utilization Problem." Mr. Ozlin's address is to be delivered in the afternoon session of February 11 and Dr. Esselen is on the morning program February 12. Indications point to an attendance of approximately 350.

Among 2,000 invitations which have been sent are notices to members of the Virginia Senate committee on agriculture, mining and manufacturing and the House committee on agriculture and mining. Every wood-using industry in the State has been invited to take part in the conference, as well as the lumber companies, land owners and State and Federal officials who are interested in forest conservation.

MRS. CALHOUN LOSES $1,091 SUIT ON NOTE

Capital Society Woman Must Pay That Amount to Rockville Man.

APPEAL NOTICE HINTED

Judgment in the sum of $1,091.81 was awarded Joseph R. Harris on a claim for $2,000 against Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, Washington society woman, by Judge Robert B. Peter, sr., in Rockville, Md., Circuit Court yesterday.

Harris filed his claim against Mrs. Calhoun on a note dated June 29, 1928, and signed by Mrs. Calhoun, which he had received from George A. Gormley in payment of a debt owed by Gormley, a Washington contractor, to Harris.

Mrs. Calhoun announced last night that she would appeal the case as the judgment was based on a mere technicality, and that the law, which permitted it after the court admitted she owed neither Harris nor Gormley, would be questioned.

Gormley claimed the note was given him by Mrs. Calhoun to cover a debt she owed him but Mrs. Calhoun told the court that Gormley proposed her signing the note so that he might borrow money for her on it. She says she signed the note and then called her husband to ask his advice. He advised not completing the deal with Gormley and Mrs. Calhoun asserts she informed Gormley that the deal was off. Later she claims to have discovered that the note was gone and asked Gormley to return it, but adds that this was never done.

Judge Peter in his ruling held that Mrs. Calhoun was not indebted to Gormley for any amount but that Harris had received the note for a preexisting debt, had no knowledge of any infirmity or defect in the note nor knowledge of such facts that his conduct in taking the instrument would amount to bad faith. The ruling held, however, that under the circumstances Harris was entitled to interest only until the maturity of the note and for this reason the judgment was for $1,091.80 instead of $2,000.

Mrs. Calhoun was represented by Attorneys Stedman Prescott, of Rockville, and W. Gwynn Gardiner, of Washington, while Harris' attorneys were Charles Collins, of Washington, and William H. Talbott, of Rockville.

Injunction Halts Cutting of Cedars

Woman Claims Entomologist Plans to Ignore His Agreement.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 5.—Mrs. R. C. Ringgold, Shepherdstown, today was awarded a temporary injunction in Circuit Court here against W. E. Rumsey, State entomologist of the State department of agriculture, and Woods Rannells, in charge of cedar cutting in this section under State law restraining the cutters from hewing ornamental back-door cedars on her property. No date for a hearing has been set.

Mrs. Ringgold charges the entomologist is planning to break an agreement made with her whereby these ornamental trees are to be exempted from the cedar eradication campaign if she agrees to keep them clear of spore balls that are blamed by the entomologist for spreading cedar rust to orchards.

The injunction is the latest move in the effort of the opponents of the cedar rust law to halt the cutting of ornamental trees. The opposition has been particularly strenuous in the Shepherdtown area, where the protestants have been organized into a voters' league.

Use of the American flag placed in the tops of the trees to halt the cutting failed, and an appeal to President Hoover, charging disrespect of the flag also brought no action.

GEN. CROSBY CHOSEN.

Upon his retirement on March 21 Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, U. S. A., at present Chief of Cavalry, will be nominated by the President to be a member of the Board of District Commissioners. While Gen. Crosby is the antithesis of a martinet, his appointment will make the board predominantly military in character. Exception has been taken to this by a proportion of the public.

The law provides that the District shall be governed by a board composed of three commissioners, two of whom shall be civilians and the other an army engineer. The law specifies further: "The two persons appointed from civilian life shall at the time of their appointment be citizens of the United States and shall have been actual residents of the District of Columbia for three years next before their appointment and, during that period, claimed residence nowhere else." Technically, Gen. Crosby will become a civilian upon his retirement, and technically he has been an actual resident of the District for longer than three years. Many residents believe, however, that the law contemplates the appointment of men of civilian training, whose residence in Washington is not an official accident.

Gen. Crosby is appointed in the interest of law enforcement to take charge of the police, fire and traffic departments. "His headship of these departments," says President Hoover, "will be assurance of just support and leadership to the men in these services. It will be a guarantee to both the official and unofficial residents of the District and especially to the nation at large that the Capital will be free of organized crime." No doubt an army officer could inject a more rigorous note in police and fire department discipline, and if that were all that is needed, the military atmosphere would be an improvement. But a doubt arises in connection with the contact between these departments and the public. The District Commissioners must have the support of the public in order to succeed.

It is possible for an army officer to make a good municipal official, and Gen. Crosby's reputation for tact and cooperative ability is in his favor. Nevertheless, two army men to one civilian on the board of District Commissioners is hardly within the spirit of the law as understood by the people of Washington.

AMERICA ON THE DOLE.

Senator Dill, of Washington, has come forth with the inevitable bill to provide Federal funds for old age pensions. Advocates of pensions for the aged have been busy in Washington and throughout the country for years. Every time Congress has wavered in the direction of socialism they have taken encouragement. Now that Senator Dill has definitely put in a bid for $10,000,000 out of the Treasury to pay for this gigantic philanthropy, Congress can expect no peace until it has spoken its mind.

The Dill bill provides that the fund shall be divided among the States, and that it shall not be available until the State governments supply an equal amount. If all the States took advantage of such a plan there would be available $20,000,000. The "League for Industrial Democracy" found by a recent survey that there are approximately 2,000,000 persons over 65 years of age who are wholly or partially dependent upon others. This would provide a generous allowance of $10 each per year. As this is insufficient, the next step would be to increase the appropriation.

The States are obliged to take care of their indigent and aged, but there is no such obligation on the Federal Government. If old age pensions were paid out of the Federal Treasury, Congress would be pressed at once to take care of the orphans, the mentally incompetent, the physically disabled and every other class of persons who have met with misfortune. Millions would be on the dole.

Some of the States are meeting with considerable success in their efforts to pension the indigent aged. The movement for individual pensions is gaining momentum, and in time all those who reach senility without means of support will no doubt be taken care of. At present the States are hesitating because they believe that Congress, in a generous moment, will relieve them of this responsibility. The Senate can prosper the cause of the aged by making it plain that the Government does not intend to establish the dole system.

PROTECTION TO CHEMICAL INDUSTRY.

The group of Democrats who helped to defeat the movement to place the tariff on chemical products on a basis of foreign valuation showed good judgment. The United States learned a lesson when the World War cut off its supply of coal tar chemicals from Germany. Now that an American industry has been built up under tariff protection it would be absurd to sacrifice it to the chemical monopoly of Germany.

The fight over the chemical schedule turned upon the method of levying duties rather than on specific rates. Practically all duties are levied on the foreign value of imports. It is difficult to determine foreign value of chemicals, and therefore easy to undervalue them for the purpose of importation to America. Powerful combinations in Europe are able to cause such fluctuations in price as to offset any tariff protection that might be given the American industry on the basis of foreign values. For this reason Congress in 1922 provided ad valorem duties on chemical goods, based on the price of similar American goods in the domestic market.

The chief arguments against American valuation brought forward by the insurgents were that it extends a special privilege to a single industry, and that the so-called "American chemical trust" is fixing prices. Congress has recognized foreign value as an unsatisfactory basis for levying duties and has instructed the Tariff Commission to translate all existing rates to a scale of domestic value in such a way that protection will be secured. When this is completed it is anticipated that Congress will substitute this new foundation for the present haphazard method of fixing value on imports. The Senate's vote on the chemical schedule strengthens the hope that a system of American valuation will be adopted for all imports, and that "diving under the tariff wall" through undervaluation will be at an end.

The argument that companies engaged in the manufacture of chemicals are violating the antitrust laws has no place in a debate on the tariff. If there is any foundation for these charges, the law provides a remedy. An industry which is essential to the welfare of the Nation from the standpoint of health and national defense as well as economics should not be exposed to ruinous foreign competition. If some manufacturers are forming combinations in restraint of trade they can be brought up with a sharp turn.

TOO MANY MIDSHIPMEN.

It has been the practice of the Navy to require midshipmen, upon their graduation from Annapolis, to serve at least two years before being permitted to resign. This year the rule is to be abrogated. The commissioned strength of the Navy is practically up to the 4 per cent of enlisted personnel limit prescribed by law. Between 30 or 40 midshipmen face the loss of commissions that they were inferentially promised when they were admitted to the Academy, whereas only two, following the announcement that the two-year rule would be abrogated, signified their desire to return to civil life next June.

In a recent communication addressed to the Secretary of the Navy, Rear Admiral R. H. Leigh, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, said: "Consideration of the increased demand for officers aboard naval vessels, as at present equipped and operated, and of the insistent calls for greater numbers of officers to fill the requirements of a constantly expanding aviation program, will show that the present ratio of 4 per cent fails to meet the needs of the service today." Admiral Leigh advocates a 6 per cent limitation, which would bring the commissioned strength to above 6,000 officers.

This would seem to be a wise adjustment. It will be remembered that the principal difficulty in the World War was to obtain competent officers, both in the Army and the Navy. Difficult as it is to make good soldiers and sailors of civilians in the limited time available during war, it is a far larger task to produce officers competent to lead men in modern warfare. When officers are available the task of training civilians is made easier.

As a general thing, young men enter the Naval Academy not to obtain a general education at the expense of the Government but to fit themselves for a naval career. It will be a rank injustice if in June commissions will have to be denied any midshipmen who have earned them and wish to remain in the service. Congress should provide for commissioning the entire class of 1930 without regard to the 4 per cent limitation. In the meantime, the advisability of raising the limitation to 6 per cent should be considered.

THE JURY SYSTEM.

The New York Crime Commission is once more attempting to amend the State constitution so that verdicts could be rendered by five-sixths of the jury in all civil and criminal cases, except where the accused would face execution if convicted. Several times before this Senator Baumes has led movements against the traditional rule of unanimous jury verdicts, but the proposed reform has each time met with crushing opposition. There is no indication that sentiment in New York has changed.

Arguments of the crime commission in support of this proposed amendment are not convincing. No one will deny that conviction by ten out of twelve jurymen would expedite the work of the courts. But the fundamental question to be considered is: Would justice under this plan be secure? The fact that two men who listen to all the evidence against a defendant are not convinced of his guilt, means that guilt has not been unquestionably established. By all the rules of tradition and justice a man should not be punished as long as there is a reasonable doubt of his guilt.

Before any State departs from the fundamental rule of conviction by a unanimous verdict it would be wise to inquire whether the remedies sought can be worked out in some other way. It is argued that ten-men verdicts would prevent mistrials because of death or sickness of a juror. The same result can be obtained by the simple expedient of choosing thirteen instead of twelve jurors and having one serve as an alternate.

Another argument is that it would prevent two jurors holding out against conviction because of prejudice and personal feelings. If veniremen are examined properly there will be no individuals on a jury who are unable to render an honest verdict because of prejudice or other reasons.

Criticisms of the jury system are numerous, but in most cases the trouble can be traced to inefficient methods of selecting jurors. The jury system has been allowed to go to seed. Rehabilitation is necessary. But it is doubtful whether the people will ever accept reforms which would emasculate this fundamental of justice.

IMPROVEMENT OF B STREET.

No other section of Washington is quite so much in need of development as that area north of Pennsylvania avenue in the immediate vicinity of the Capitol. The Government will spend millions in development of the south side of the Avenue, and the new District Center will modernize that section of the north side between Third and Sixth streets. It remains for private capital to develop the area between the District Center and the Capitol.

The eight-story hotel to be erected between First and Second streets and the office building to rise between Second and Third, both on B street, promise to start off the development of an attractive business section in this area. The builders are reported to be cooperating with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to bring about complete architectural harmony between the new private structures and the proposed Government buildings.

B street is to be widened and improved to become an important ceremonial avenue leading to the Capitol. It is highly desirable that it should be adorned with beautiful private structures. It has been anticipated that the Government's building program would stimulate development of the adjacent areas, and it is gratifying to find owners of this property cooperating with the planning commission in the interests of a more beautiful Washington.

AS TEXAS SEES US

From the Houston Post Dispatch.

The City of Washington has wrestled for years with a problem peculiar to it, and tried vainly during these years to hide from the world a shameful secret.

Certain birds of European ancestry known as starlings have found in Washington a comforting environment, and multiplied amazingly. One of their favorite roosting places has been Pennsylvania avenue, between Eleventh and Fourteenth streets—the Avenue from opposite ends of which President Hoover and Congress make wry faces each at each.

The habit of the starlings was to roost in thick clusters on the topmost branches of the trees, crowded like Republicans seeking a postoffice appointment.

Pilgrims passing underneath the trees at dusk, are enraged or mortified to learn one angle of the starling problem. Motorists who were joyful to the point of tears, at finding unexpectedly vacant parking spaces, returned from sojourns afoot to gaze in dumb misery at the ruin visited upon their cars.

A few well-placed charges of birdshot would have eliminated the starlings. But Washington City officials, to whom short cuts of any character are intolerable, have tried many ludicrous methods of driving the birds away.

Tinkling strips of glass have been hung laboriously in the trees to disturb the slumber of the feathered ones. Smudge pots have been burned to offend their sense of smell. Bright lights have been trained athwart the clustered ranks. Drums have been beaten underneath—but not directly underneath. Ordinances perhaps have been read by night, solemnly warning the starlings to move.

Recently a genius of the park department figured out an infallible offensive. Cut out the tops of the trees where the birds were wont to roost, he reasoned, and there would be no topmost branches left as sanctuaries. Accordingly, the trees were denuded of their tops and now stand as mutilated, stumpy monuments to official short-sightedness.

For the starlings have taken new quarters on the cornices of the tall buildings fronting Pennsylvania avenue and F street, in the heart of the downtown shopping center. Cheep and chatter sound at dusk as the evening homeward flight is witnessed. By hundreds and thousands the feathered ones perch upon the cornices. Seemingly they prefer the outer edges of their lofty resting places. Howls of anguish arise daily from merchants and theater owners to whom the feathered tenants are unwelcome.

The manner in which the City of Washington has dealt with the starling problem is typical of its handling of more fundamental problems. The municipal government of the National Capital is far from being a model of efficiency. The school system of Washington is lamentably backward, and citizens of many American cities would find it hard to believe that the conditions actually prevailing in the District of Columbia public schools could exist year after year unremedied.

A "POLITICAL YEAR."

We're sorry, says the Atchison Globe, but our country is to be saved again this year. We had hoped that our country could settle down to work, and solve its agricultural problems this year, and get tariff matters out of the way, but every position in the House of Representatives will go to political bat this summer and next fall; and one-third of the Senate is to be elected. Which means that charges and counter charges, all to be made blatantly, will keep our country in a state of turmoil another year. The older we grow, the more we espouse fewer laws and fewer elections. But, of course, one little country editorializer can't amend the Constitution of the United States.

His food and drink to gain.

But as I passed along today,
"Isn't that swell!" I heard him say,
And turned with him to see
What curious sight had caught his eye.
"Them look like jewels from the sky,
On every bush and tree.
"There's something sort o' sweet an' fine
About the way them branches shine
In winter's coat of frost,
As if some master mind and hand
Had figured out the scheme and planned
Without regard to cost."

What if the speech be rough, uncouth?
There is no tyranny of truth,
Words but men's thoughts reveal,
And poetry may be the thing
Which genius has power to sing
And others power to feel.

A Roasted Ox Is No Treat If You're On a Milk Toast Diet.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

HAPPINESS isn't a gift of the gods, awarded to favorites without regard for their deserts.

It is a prize, to be won by intelligent effort; and the fortunate who win it without effort have by accident met the conditions that insure it.

The right way to search for happiness is discovered by a process of elimination—by discarding one by one the methods that seem to promise much and yet are known to fail.

Wealth and fame seem to promise all that could be desired, and might bring happiness to one who lacked no other essential, but they are not sufficient in themselves.

Many who are wealthy and famous are lonely and broken in health.

What, then, are the essentials, sufficient to insure happiness, and without which happiness is impossible?

Normal youth affords happiness, but it is neither essential nor dependable, and the young who are easily made happy are as easily made miserable.

There is a spiritual resource that gives happiness to the broken and maimed, but it is a product of their necessity and not to be had by the whole.

And there is happiness in service for egoists who find joy in martyrdom and for great-hearted people born without the taint of selfishness.

But ordinary people who would achieve happiness must find it in health, work and comradeship.

Given these three essentials, happiness is assured; denied any one of them, it is impossible—though all else in the world be gained.

With health and a congenial task one may be lonely.

With health and comradeship one may be miserable in idleness.

With congenial work and a congenial comrade one may be miserable in ill health.

These three are the ingredients of happiness, without which all else is dross, with which nothing else is necessary.

And the ordinary individual, rich or poor, high or low, may have these three if he will pursue them intelligently and with singleness of purpose.

Win and keep these three and you will have the maximum happiness of which you are capable.

Neglect and lose any one of them in pursuit of other rewards and you will miss the greatest prize life has to offer.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WATCH YOUR NATIONAL ANTHEM!

Well, we may all have to make those high notes in "The Star-Spangled Banner" whether we want to or not. The boys and girls who don't go in much for vocal altitude and who try to get away with "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" at patriotic gatherings may find themselves rounded up by the Government Song Enforcement Squad and rushed off to the hoosegow.

• • • •

Believe it or not, Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, has introduced a bill at Washington to make the "Oh Say Can You See" song the one and only official national anthem.

• • • •

If the bill goes through, you can't open the loyal citizens' rally with "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" or anything like that and remain a good citizen. You'll sing "The Star-Spangled Banner" and like it.

• • • •

Can't you see the newspaper stories even now?

Providence, R. I.—Hilary P. Plunkett, well-known citizen, was shot by Government agents here today as he stood beside the piano in his home. Mrs. Plunkett was playing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and Mr. Plunkett was singing it in a rather throaty barytone when the front door was flung open by Government agents who fired four times at the couple. Mr. Plunkett was slain but his wife escaped. The agents announced that they would try again some other time.

• • • •

New York.—Government Song Enforcement agents descended on a suite in an apartment house in the Sixties today with hatchets, destroying the premises and arresting 42 citizens, all members of a singing society who had gathered behind stuffed windows and drawn curtains to sing "Yankee Doodle Came to Town," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

"We've had our eyes on this place for months," said Jabez B. Horan, chief of the Patriotic Song Enforcement division. "I am convinced that we have rounded up some of the biggest singers of illegal songs in the country. We intend to make an example of them."

• • • •

Washington, D. C.—Senator Brookhart startled the Senate today by charging that at a dinner party to which he had recently been invited his host turned on the phonograph and played "America, I Love You" openly. "Furthermore," declared the senator, "under my chair I found a professional copy of 'Yankee Doodle.' I have here a letter from the Salagamundi Club, an anonymous one, charging that a member can get the words and music of 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee' any time he wants it."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Chaplain Livingston Enters Lists Against Mr. Ground Hog and Says He Detects Spring in the Offing.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The other day I wrote about "Washington's Blanket of Whiteness." It was the impression I had when, last Thursday morning, I went out into Washington's world of falling snow. This morning, just a week later, there's something different in the air—something soft, mellow, warm. Just what is it? Can it be the breath of spring?

No, not yet, for Mr. Ground Hog saw his shadow last Sunday, and they say that means six weeks more of winter. Yet, upon the air of this morning there is a breath of verdant newness. It's like the freshness of a morning in March when the spirit of on-coming things is sensed and felt. To make sure I walked through the woods between Tilden Gardens and Thirty-fourth street northwest, south of the Bureau of Standards. There, in a shallow ravine runs a small rivulet. Sure enough, the song of that babbling thing of nature was different. Melting snows had changed its music and the icy fetters were gone. And, there, as though a tell-tale of something happening, out from under a water-washed root of a big sleeping oak a verdant fern—though snow-bedecked—thrust forth its harbinger-like tendrils. Like myself it seemed catching a breath in the air of that which was fresh and new.

Then and there, we three, rivulet, fern and I agreed that this something, strange and silent and new—something diffusing itself in air and wood and stream—must be Washington's harbinger of springtime.

Bird Expert Questions Details of the Tragedy at Upperville.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter regarding a bird tragedy which appeared February 5 stated some facts and some fancies. It is true that the starlings drive away smaller birds, but it does not seem possible that a starling can kill a flicker, which is a little larger than a starling.

Two erroneous remarks were that a flicker's egg is blue and that the starling destroyed the flicker's nest, the remains of which were found on the ground beneath the tree in which the battle was waged. Flicker eggs are a glossy white and not blue. Starlings lay eggs that are a very pale blue, while robins lay eggs that are blue, a little deeper shade of blue than those of a starling. The catbird, which builds its nest in bushes and shrubbery, lays eggs that are a deep greenish blue. The eggs that were found were probably robin eggs, but certainly not flicker eggs.

A flicker builds its nest in a hole in a dead tree, usually a sycamore, sometimes a maple or tulip poplar. The flicker chisels into the dead tree to a depth of 3 or 4 inches and then chisels down for about 8 to 10 inches. The nest which is at the bottom of this hole is nothing more than a few of the chips of dead wood that have fallen to the bottom. No twigs, mud or straw are used in the construction of the nest; hence Mrs. N. R. P. is wrong when she says her neighbor found the flicker's nest on the ground beneath the tree.

Starlings often build their nests in deserted flicker nests, but I have never seen a starling try to drive a flicker away from its home, though it is possible that this has often occurred.

"Great Falls" a Misnomer and Causes Disappointment—Let the Name Be "Potomac Falls" or "Cascades."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In an article by Arthur A. Shurtleff, president of the American Society of Landscape Architects, "Potomac Canyons," reprinted in The Post from the New York Times, occur the words, "at the canyon's upper end the roar comes from a fall which is well named the Great Falls of the Potomac."

So far as the Potomac itself is concerned that is true. But for a good reason I think the name "Cascades of the Potomac," would be better. When we speak of falls, especially of "great falls," Niagara is naturally envisaged; and in the mind's eye of visitors to the so-called Great Falls of the Potomac something similar to Niagara, only on a smaller scale, is anticipated.

The result is that at least their first impression of the falls is apt to be more or less unsatisfactory. It is superfluous to say that the scenery at Great Falls is magnificent but the falls merely comprise one of its striking features. If the name were changed to "Cascades of the Potomac," or "Potomac Cascades," or "Potomac Falls," say, I think it would add to the enjoyment of the tourist; the scene would be more than he bargained for.

Exaggeration may be necessary in an oil-well prospectus, but it seems to me that in the case of scenic beauty, underpraise, rather than overpraise, would be the best policy in fairness to the tourist if not to the scenery itself.

Too Much When Congress Tells Patriots What They Must Sing.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Linthicum bill, by which it is proposed to present us with an official national anthem, "The Star-Spangled Banner," goes further in the regulation of public opinion than was ever contemplated by the Constitution of the United States.

Already what we shall drink is regulated, and, now if Congress dictates the tune that patriots shall sing, it will not be long, I suppose, till they are passing bills for the Americanization of our pronunciation and spelling.

Monopoly Tendencies Are Increasing Cost of Living.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is much economic bunk in these mergers and remergers on inflated capital. This country has been overdone by monopolies under a false economic idea that results in increased cost of living, driving millions out of employment, and concentrating wealth into a few hands.

This country needs to put a stop to movie monopolies, chain stores and other loot-gathering devices out of harmony with American ideas of open field opportunity now closed to present and future generations.

SUFFRAGAN NAMED TO ANDERSON POST

Bishop Griswold Is Elected Episcopal Primate at Chicago Convention.

IS NATIVE OF NEW YORK

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The Right Rev. Sheldon Munson Griswold, suffragan bishop of Chicago for thirteen years, was selected today to fill the bishopric of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Chicago, made vacant by the death of the most Rev. Charles P. Anderson.

Bishop Griswold was first chosen by the clerical delegates to the ninety-third diocesan convention on the fifth ballot.

This choice was then approved by the lay delegates, 35 half votes being cast in his favor, one-half a vote more than was necessary for approval.

In the final ballot cast by the clergymen, Bishop Griswold received 56 of the 104 votes cast. Dr. George H. Thomas, of St. Paul's Church, Chicago, received 25, and Dr. George Craig Stewart, of St. Luke's Church, Evanston, 23.

Voting Amendment Passed.

In future conventions laymen will have equal rights with clergy in elections under an amendment to the diocesan canons adopted yesterday.

Bishop Griswold was called to Chicago in 1917 to assist Bishop Anderson in the diocesan administration.

He had been for fourteen previous years Bishop of Salina, Kas., where he was consecrated January 8, 1903. On the same date in 1917 he was instituted as suffragan bishop here.

The new prelate will be 70 years old next July 8. For 45 years he has been in the service of the church.

Studied at Union College.

A native of Delhi, N. Y., he was educated at Union College, receiving bachelor and master of arts degrees and the doctorate of divinity there. In 1885, he was graduated from General Theological Seminary, New York, and the same year was ordained by Bishop Doane.

His ministry began as a missionary at Mohawk and Frankfort, N. Y. For three years he served as rector of Emmanuel Church at Little Falls, N. Y., and from 1890 to 1902, was rector at Hudson, N. Y.

In 1902 he was elected missionary bishop of Salina, the first bishop to hold the post. He organized the new diocese of Salina.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE statesmen do have a lot of trouble making themselves understood by their people.

Now there is the instance of the prohibition speeches by Representatives Fort and Lehlbach, both of New Jersey, in the House recently. Mr. Fort's was a dry speech and Mr. Lehlbach's was a wet one.

Mr. Fort insisted that the drys be permitted to have the law and the wets their home-brew. The following day Mr. Fort's dry friends jumped all over him. What did he mean, they asked, by giving such comfort as this to the wets? Had he turned wet? Mr. Fort had to issue what has come to be known in statesmanship circles as a clarifying statement insisting that he was still dry.

• • • •

MR. LEHLBACH'S trouble was from the other side. He would not accept Mr. Fort's statement that home-brew is permissible under present laws. No siree, the Volstead act calls for the jailing of all those who imbibe. Repeal the law, that was what should be done.

But his wet friends jumped all over him. What did he mean, saying that the home-brewers should be jailed? Had he turned dry?

Mr. Lehlbach had to issue a clarifying statement insisting that he was still wet.

• • • •

THERE would seem to have been no need, however, for this confusion. The remarks of the two gentlemen were perfectly plain.

Mr. Lehlbach as a wet is against present conditions. He wanted no such compromise as Mr. Fort suggested. A wet is not one who wants the present laws retained on the condition that he may continue to make his home-brew. That is a dry.

And surely there was no reason why Mr. Fort should have been misunderstood. He made it very clear that he was a dry, not willing to budge an inch. But he pictured himself as a good-fellow dry, one of those drys who says, "No thanks, I don't drink myself but you go right ahead. Don't pay any any attention to me." And probably, too, Mr. Fort is one of those rare fellows who can be the life of the party without taking a drink, who can cut up, in fact, and make just as much noise as the drunks.

It is a happy, enviable factor and some fellows and some girls have it, too, there is no doubt of that.

• • • •

IT can not be said, however, that his proposal that the drys have the law and wets their home-brew was exactly new.

The plight of some of the Republican candidates in Eastern wet centers in the last presidential campaign caused them to elvolve all manner of proposals. Al Smith was a serious menace to them and the history of this country is that necessity will always evolve inventions.

No one was in a worse plight than Louis Monast, trying to return to Congress on the Republican ticket up in Rhode Island.

"Why should you vote for Al Smith and the Democrats?" he used to plead. "They can't give you any better beer than you are getting."

MRS. HOOVER HEARS TOWNSEND MUSICAL

Grace Moore, of Metropolitan, Pleases Distinguished Group at Mayflower.

MRS. TAFT IS PRESENT

A distinguished audience, which included Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. William Howard Taft, present and past chatelaines of the White House, yesterday heard Grace Moore, American prima donna, who got her first musical training in Washington, in the last of Mrs Lawrence Townsend's musical mornings at the Hotel Mayflower this season.

Miss Moore, who is a prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, was assisted in her program by Robert Goldsand, pianist.

It was soon apparent that Miss Moore possesses a voice of depth and warmth, of fresh quality, with a hint of reserve power not always found in the coloratura soprano. It was the voice of youth and Miss Moore handled it like a veteran without taking from it its charm and appeal.

How thorough has been her operatic training was shown in the ease with which she sang her opening number, an aria from "Manon Lescaut," by Puccini. Expression and technical skill were exhibited throughout the aria and the audience showered her with applause at its close. Her diction was impeccable in the group of French ballads and another aria, "Depuis le Jour," from the opera, "Louise," while in her English group the lovely "Robin, Sing Me a Song," by Charles Gilbert Spross, and Charles T. Griffes' "By a Lonely Forest Pathway," won new acclaim for the singer, which was augmented when she sang one of the best numbers of the morning, Clara Edwards' "By the Bend of the River."

Mr. Goldsand, who played several groups of piano solos, had a pleasing command of his instrument, a gift for interpretation and technical skill galore.

Three Republicans, Representatives Burton L. French, of Idaho; Henry E. Barbour, of California, and John G. Cooper, of Ohio, and two Democrats, Representatives William B. Oliver, of Alabama, and Robert Crosser, of Ohio, were named. Vice President Charles Curtis has not yet appointed the Senate's quota to the committee, which was authorized in a joint resolution recently signed by the President.

SUCCESS IS SCORED BY LUTHERAN CHOIR

St. Olaf Organization, From Minnesota, Acclaimed at Concert Here.

MOTETS ARE APPLAUDED

St. Olaf Lutheran Choir of Northfield, Minn., under the direction of Dr. F. Melius Christiansen, appeared in concert last night in Memorial Continental Hall. The choir was brought here by the Luther League of Washington.

Massed choir effects by the voices of about 50 white-robed singers of the choir and clear-cut enunciation were the outstanding musical features of the program.

The program contained many classics of church music, several Norwegian folk melodies and a number of selections in Latin. On the program also were compositions by Dr. Christiansen.

The Bach motet for double chorus in four movements "Sing Ye to the Lord" aroused great enthusiasm, as did a motet for Advent, by Gustav Schreck. In these numbers the choral effects were magnificently produced.

Society Turns Out for Last Of Musicales

Mrs. Hoover Heads List of Guests at Close of Series.

By JEAN ELIOT.

MRS. HOOVER attended the last of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's morning musicales, held at the Mayflower yesterday, having as guests Miss Susan Dyer, who has been staying at the White House for several weeks, and Miss Ruth Fesler. Cheered by the physicians' word that the retiring Chief Justice was feeling better after a restful night, Mrs. William Howard Taft slipped away from her nursing to enjoy this delightful hour of music, presented by Miss Grace Moore, soprano, and Robert Goldsand, Austrian pianist. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was also in the audience, as was Mrs. Edward Everett Gann.

Mrs. Gann was entertained at a post-concert luncheon by Mrs. Frank T. Hines. The Brazilian Ambassador, Senor S. Gurgel do Amaral, was the ranking guest at Mrs. Townsend's luncheon for her artists. Senora de Davila and Mme. Debuchi were among those in the smart company entertained by Mrs. Everett Sanders, and Mrs. Charles H. Harlow has a delightful luncheon arranged in compliment to Lady Rhodes, who is visiting Mrs. Henry C. Corbin.

The Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik were also with Mrs. Townsend, whose guests included the Counselor of the Austrian Legation and Mme. Hauenschield, Senor Don Mariano de Amoedo Galarmendi and Senor Don Jose M. Linares-Rivas, of the Spanish Embassy; Mrs. C. J. W. Pretty Miss Grace Moore, who had been visiting Mrs. Lawrence Townsend for a few days before her concert, was guest of honor last night at a dinner given by Mr. Louis B. Mayer at the Mayflower. It will be remembered that, after a brilliant career at the Metropolitan, the young singer, who comes of a distinguished Tennessee family, has signed up for talking movies under the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer banner; and the motion picture magnate, now a visitor in town, seized this opportunity to fete his new star.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt filled the role of hostess for the dinner. The guests were the Secretary of Labor, Mr. James J. Davis; Senator and Mrs. William E. Brock, Representative Florence P. WHILE the Brazilian Ambassador was talking over Station WMAL Tuesday night, voices and music from another station could be heard in the background.

At the same time, Station WJZ, New York, and WJR, Detroit, supposed to be on cleared channels separated by 10 kilocycles, came in together. Also supposedly on cleared channels, WSM, at Nashville, 650 kilocycles, blanketed WEAF, New York, on 660 kilocycles.

Programs on the dial between 650 and 700 kilocycles have been punctuated by code the past few nights.

A NEW YORK agency ventures the following radio salary estimates:

Hugh Barret Dobbs, a Pacific Coast network 'Cheerio,' $100,000 a year. Rudy Vallee, $2,500 for each orchestra appearance, Vincent Lopez, the same.

"Franklyn Baur, tenor, $1,000 a week, Jessica Dragonette, $700, and Graham McNamee, from all sources, $1,000 a week."

To which might be added Real Folks, $2,000 a performance and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, $3,000.

REPRESENTATIVE Noble Johnson broadcast the following experience:

"Upon meeting one of his constituents, who had asked to receive the Congressional Record, Mr. Johnson asked him how he liked it.

"Fine," said the rural constituent, "but there is one thing I do not understand. In so many speeches I see the word 'applesauce.' Here for instance."

"At that the constituent handed Mr. Johnson a copy of the speech. After the latter looked over it, he said, 'That isn't 'applesauce.' The word is 'applause.'"

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 11:15 p. m. to midnight.

Influences for this date are of a depressing nature, and you will feel much alone with imaginary ills and worries. It will be difficult to get down to work and little progress may be expected. Things will turn out differently than planned.

The child born on this February 6 will have considerable energy to put into both mental and physical pursuits. It will be intellectual, and science and philosophy will especially attract it. It will be very fond of a good time.

You are rather a disgruntled being, and possess the unfortunate habit of "kicking." You are always speculating how much better you could be if you had a different lot and sphere assigned to you. The very things that you most deprecate, as fatal limitations or obstructions, are probably what you most want. What you call hindrances, obstacles, discouragements, are probably your opportunities—if you only had the optimism to realize it.

A fault-finding attitude does not stimulate friendship nor generate affection. The few friends you possess have, however, glimpsed below the surface, and have found in you there the virtues of self-sacrifice, kindness and a clean mind. Your inherent disposition is a sweet one, but you trot it out in ill-fitting habiliments.

You are very painstaking, and if you could only cultivate the habit of concentration on the job in hand—regardless of its nature—success would be attained. You are probably destined to travel widely, and may be involved in one or more adventures. The signs denote that in your home life you will find much real happiness. In your family circle you are natural and aim to reveal the charm, frankness and sympathy of your character, rather than the defects which you seem so foolishly pleased to display to outsiders.

Successful people born February 6:

James Winchester—A founder of Memphis, Tenn.

Aaron Burr—Statesman; Vice President under Jefferson.

George J. Gould—Capitalist.

Sir Henry Irving—Actor.

Elizabeth W. Champney—Author.

WORK'S BRIDGE

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

Because of space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy the intense interest in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48-page booklet, entitled "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written in Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

OF the 42 questions which were asked concerning 18 bridge hands, of which 3 were printed on each day last week, 19 have now been answered. Today we print the correct answers to the questions asked last Thursday. Tomorrow and Saturday watch for the replies to the questions asked on corresponding days last week.

Jane Claire INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Feb. 5.

THERE'S a certain type of so-called afternoon gown very much in evidence these days, which is just about right for the average semi-formal cafe dining. It is just exactly suited to the rather formal tea in your own home or some one else's; the cafe dinner and dancing; and a the dressy type of bridge party; theater party for any type of theater except the opera, perhaps.

It is long, oh yes! And rather decollete, although certainly not as decollete as an evening gown. Still, the front decolletage is fairly high and cut square, and the black often comes to a fairly low point.

The elegantly fitted bodice and molded skirt I leave to your imagination, but, lest your imagination be not quite up to it, I must mention the narrow insets of material from the knee, which are allowed to fall in uneven points to the ground.

• • • •

But the particular characteristic of this type of very dressy afternoon gown is the floating cape, which drips longer over one shoulder than the other, and is usually shorter at the front than at the back. Or else it has a sleeveless bolero, quite high of decolletage, which is worn right over the dress' fairly low decolletage.

I have in mind Mag-Helly's black tulle veritable evening gown with its hand-incrusted horsehair trimming, and its detachable sleeveless bolero, which makes this type of afternoon frock out of the evening gown. And Ardanse's divine white chiffon gown with its removable jacket of the most fragilely delicate black shadow lace!

• • • •

And then we just couldn't help sketching for you another one of Louiseboulanger's delightful tweed suit-dresses This one was of light and dark blue, and was trimmed with a darling checked taffeta of white, blue and red We just couldn't help noticing the scarf, tied as it was right in the front with just a tiny ribbon of the taffeta.

The Couturier.

Mag-Helly is all one name, you know—and this one you say all in one breath, as well. But you say "mag-el-lee" with an imperceptible accent on the middle syllable. This is the house that goes in for celebrities, you know. No, they haven't made us any special outfits yet!

• • • •

If you're really going to make that automobile trip this spring, I know just the thing for you to wear with your suit—even if you don't go, as a matter of fact! You'll need a hat, bag and scarf ensemble to wear with a coat or suit. And by ensemble I mean, it matches either in material or design or incrustation or what-not. And by what-not I mean, well, why don't you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet, and see just what I do mean. 'Cause I've thought up some really chic suggestions for your spring hat, bag and scarf ensemble—or, maybe, ensembles (plural)

• • • •

Then, too, there's some mighty interesting things in the weekly Dare fashion letter. It appears in the Capital only in The Sunday Washington Post—every Sunday.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Brain-Age."

DEAR Miss McDonald—I read your column daily hoping that perhaps one might be troubled in the same way that I am and that perhaps your advice would help me, but it seems that I am alone in that respect. And so I am asking if you will not be so good as to give me advice direct through your column.

First, I wish to impress upon you that I am not trying to brag or am conceited. I am 26 years of age and quite tall, being 5 feet 6½ inches. But it seems that no one ever takes me for my age, and that is my worry, and I suppose it does sound silly to be worrying over that fact that I do not look 26, especially when it seems to be woman's chief aim not to look old. But this has put me in some very embarrassing positions.

I am usually taken for 18. Now I feel that that is the reason why so many young boys become extremely fond of me. It seems that the young boys of this present generation are so extremely sophisticated and old-looking that I am often mistaken as to their age, and the result is that after a few engagements I learn of my error, although nothing serious has ever resulted from these acquaintances.

However, at the present time I am in a terrible predicament. I met a very nice young man whom I judged to be about 25 or 26 years of age. It seems that we both liked each other very much right from the start, and I have just learned that he went to quite a little trouble in order to make my acquaintance. Now I learn he is 19. Of course, now I will have to tell him that I am too old for him, although he thinks I am just about his age.

What am I to do—try to age myself? I do not like older men enough to go out with them, and feel much more natural with younger people. It seems so very difficult to meet the requirements of really nice type of man around the ages of 28 or 30, as most of them seem to desire the sophisticated girl and, although I am quite frequently complimented on my good taste in dressing and the fact that I look very well in my clothes, yet I do not dress in a manner to cause men to gaze at me on the street.

People say that I have a very youthful manner, and I have been told by younger girls that they can not consider me older and, in fact, they are really older in their knowledge of the good and bad of life. The older men whom I meet all treat me as they would a very young child. I am not a prig and like to joke and cut up, but in decent, refined manner.

SYLVIA.

My dear girl, as long as you "prefer" the younger crowd and go with them your matrimonial prospects will surely come from that young crowd, will they not? Try for six months to go with people your age or older. It will not be necessary to "age" yourself, except mentally. Note the things that the older men are interested in and make yourself familiar with those things. You know girls will always be a mystery to me, even though I have always been one.

I can lie awake at night trying to figure them out. For instance, I was out on the coast when John Rogers and his crew were lost in their plane It is not exaggerating to state that we were all in fever of anxiety for them. And at the hotel there was one splendid man who seemed able to think of nothing else. He was a millionaire and a bachelor and the girls and their mama's just hovered about him in a hushed and hopeful expectancy.

One night a girl approached us just as he was telling a group of writers why he felt the lost men could survive if not attacked by sharks. He has traveled the world and people listen when he talks. So we were all a bit jarred when the girl remarked that she wished people would stop talking about that "submarine or whatever it was." And we were still more jarred when the man shot a terrible glance after her retreating figure and swore a mighty oath for which he instantly craved pardon and was readily forgiven.

You are as old as your brain. Exercise that most interesting of all the organs. Read. Think. Listen.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

CHOWDERS.

(Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture.)

Fresh fish or clam chowder and oyster stew are good dishes for school lunches in localities where fresh sea food is abundant. Dried and salt fish or vegetables alone may also be used as the flavoring in chowders that children will find attractive and wholesome. The ingredients are milk, whole or skim, a fatty substance usually salt pork, although butter may be used, potatoes or crackers, often both; and in addition to these one of the following: Fish, either fresh or salt; green corn, fresh or canned; parsnips, vegetable oysters, kohl-rabi, or celery. A chowder consisting mainly of milk, potatoes and crackers and flavored with a little salt codfish is perhaps the most economical of these dishes.

SALT CODFISH CHOWDER.

½ pound salt codfish, or just enough to flavor.
1½ ounces or 1½ cubic inches fat salk pork.
1 tablespoon chopped onion.
3 cups cooked potatoes, or diced carrots and potatoes.
1 quart milk.
8 soda crackers.

Break the codfish into small pieces, soak it in lukewarm water until it is soft and the salt has been removed Cut the pork into small pieces and cook it until a delicate brown, adding the onions during the last part of the cooking. To the pork and onions add the potatoes; cover with water, and boil them until tender. Add the milk and the fish and reheat. Add the crackers shortly before the chowder is served.

CHICAGO WILL SEEK NEW YORK CASH AID

Emissary Leaves Hurriedly to Sell Tax Warrants in Wall Street.

CITIZEN MOVE IS HALTED

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Just as it appeared that Chicago's impoverished governments would have to turn to the citizens' rescue committee to bring the community out of its financial mire, H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, left on a hurried trip to New York bent on selling $54,000,000 worth of tax warrants to Eastern capitalists.

Mr. Caldwell already had a representative in New York negotiating for the sale and had said he would not go East unless assured it would not be a futile trip. His hurried departure, therefore, was taken as an indication that he would make a deal.

Mayor William Hale Thompson, meanwhile, was expected to frown on a city council resolution calling upon him and his administration to cooperate with the citizens rescue committee, headed by Silas Strawn, which has offered to raise funds for aiding the city until it can collect its taxes held up by a delayed reassessment. The committee has made the provision that it must oversee expenditures of money it raises.

The mayor and Mr. Caldwell both had steadfastly ignored the citizens' committee, although the county government has offered to cooperate.

City Comptroller George Schmidt said the sale of tax warrants would only bring temporary relief, and insisted State legislative action is necessary for permanent relief.

City and county employes in the meantime remain unpaid with the overdue pay roll nearing the $15,000,000 mark.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

8187

LUXURIOUSLY smart afternoon dress of new feminine appeal, with its softly draped scarf neckline and shirred girdle.

It combines plain crepe in purply-blue shade, with a novelty printed crepe of almost invisible pattern in purply-blue tones, an advanced idea for spring, that is snappy for immediate wear.

The bodice is given a slight blousing through snugly fitted girdle.

The fluttering circular skirt dips its hem in gracious manner at either side of front and back.

This charming style No. 8187 may be copied exactly as Paris sent it. It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 3¾ yards of 40-inch material with 1½ yards of 27-inch contrasting is sufficient.

It's so easily made! Merely a two-piece skirt to be seamed and joined to two-piece bodice, and it is ready for girdle, collar and sleeves.

Black silk crepe is stunning with the girdle of self-fabric with collar in eggshell shade.

Dahlia purple flat silk crepe, bottle green chiffon, black chiffon, tomato red crepe de chine, navy blue crepe marocain and wood crepe in rust brown chic combinations.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

THIS week has just missed setting a record in the motion picture theaters that would not have been deemed even remotely possible a few years ago. Had not a belated determination to limit the engagement of "Chasing Rainbows" to a single week at the Columbia been reached, the business being compiled at the downtown box offices would have occasioned a total of four holdovers out of a possible seven—better than 50 per cent of the customary first run total.

As this is written, I am informed that "Sally," at the Earle, is definitely smashing the house record, heretofore held by Colleen Moore in "Lilac Time." At the Metropolitan, while the Al Jolson record set by his engagement in "The Singin' Fool" seems safe, it is hanging to top place by a scant $1,000.

The announcement that "Hit the Deck" will be retained at the RKO-Keith Theater for a fourth consecutive week signalizes the matching in duration of run, if not in gross receipts, the record of "Rio Rita," and incidentally, fulfills a prophecy made in these columns upon the occasion of the review of the picture's opening. Not the least of the reasons for the success of the picturized Youman's musical comedy is Marguerite Padula and the concerted "Hallelujah" number. If you haven't already heard it, don't let it get away.

A consideration, by the way, that makes the records of the current films all the more impressive is that they have been achieved in the face of more than a little of the worst weather of the year. When it hasn't been snowing dismally, it has been raining even more so! Or had you noticed?

Grace Moore, the Tennessee girl who rose from the ranks of musical comedy to become a Metropolitan Opera star, yesterday signed a three-year contract to appear in the talkies under the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer banner.

Miss Moore signed a contract with Louis B. Mayer, vice president of the film company, in charge of production, immediately after her appearance at Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's musical morning in the Hotel Mayflower. Mr. Mayer came from New York and was present at the concert, which marked the beginning of a temporary absence, at least, of Miss Moore from the operatic-concert stage.

These concerts have long been the favorite rendezvous of Washington society and music lovers. Mrs. Herbert Hoover was among the guests at yesterday's concert, which Miss Moore offered with Robert Goldsand, Austrian pianist.

Mr. Mayer declined to reveal the amount of the contract which Miss Moore signed with his company, saying that it "would upset the morale if the figure were known."

The motion picture magnate entertained at dinner last evening in the palm court of the Mayflower in honor of Miss Moore. Secretary of Labor Davis was among the distinguished company present. It is understood that Miss Moore will leave immediately for California.

Don't forget, all you youngsters, that Managing Director Andy Sharick and The Sunday Junior Post's Knighthood of Youth department are staging another special performance for juvenile audiences at the Rialto Theater, Saturday morning, at 9:30 o'clock. These are gratuitous entertainments that would be amply worth any admission that might be charged—if any were.

It is a pleasure to extend congratulations to Miss Alice Marie Clarkson, office secretary of the Warner Bros. local organization, under the general managership of John J. Payette, and Nate Sauber, manager of Universal Pictures' Washington branch exchange, who are to be married in this city on Sunday, February 23.

Both Miss Clarkson and Mr. Sauber number a wide circle of friends in the industry.

In order that you may have the whole picture, next week's attractions are announced as follows: Columbia, Ramon Novarro in "Devil May Care;" Fox, William Collier, sr., Marguerite Churchill and Charles Eaton in "Harmony at Home;" Palace, Gary Cooper and Beryl Mercer in "Seven Days Leave," adapted from "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals;" Rialto, Joseph Schildkraut and Barbara Kent in "The Night Ride;" Earle, Marilyn Miller and Alexander Gray in "Sally," all-Technicolor musical production (second week); Metropolitan, Pauline Frederick, Conrad Nagel and Lila Lee in "The Sacred Flame" (second week); RKO-Keith's, Jack Oakie and Polly Walker in "Hit the Deck" (fourth week).

And don't be annoyed by all of next week's extended engagements; remember, any picture is a first-run until you have seen it!

2 WAYS TO FIGHT FAT

MAKE YOUR CHOICE

THERE is no doubt that starvation with severe self-denial can diminish fat. But the results are often worse than the fat.

Countless people have in late years found a better way. Modern science discovered it, modern physicians employ it. In every circle one can see the results. Excess fat is disappearing fast.

Research has discovered that most fat people suffer from an under-active gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. The modern method is to correct the deficiency, and thus turn more food into fuel and energy.

A famous medical laboratory embodies the method in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others, and the use has spread. The changes you see on every hand are due largely to Marmola.

The method is well-known. Physicians the world over employ it. Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. So every user knows.

If you are over-fat and unhappy, or starving to reduce, you owe to yourself a test of Marmola. You owe it to your family and friends. Combat the cause, then watch results, as others have done for so long. Let Marmola itself convince you. Read the book in the box. Life may be longer and finer. Go start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

LEADING ISSUES RISE IN HUGE STOCK SALE

4,000,000 Shares Turnover in Blocks of 5,000 to 16,000 Features.

UTILITIES ARE BUOYANT

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A display of bull pyrotechnics mildly reminiscent of old times gave the stock market its first 4,000,000-share day during 1930 today.

Advices from London indicated that a reduction in the British bank rate tomorrow was highly probable. Wall street banking circles, however, were less confident that the New York Reserve Bank would immediately follow London, and while a cut in the New York rate tomorrow remains a possibility, there is a growing belief that it may be delayed several weeks. The cheap money policy of the reserve system in early 1927 has caused so much censure from certain quarters that a more cautious policy may now be followed. Credit conditions eased a little today, call money getting down to 4 per cent, after renewals at 4½.

Stocks were taken in blocks of 5,000 to 16,000 shares, and ticker delays of a quarter of an hour were common. Important shares generally rose 1 to 5 points, but the bull crowd was hampered by profit taking, and upward progress was rather strenuous work.

Favorable trade reports and the prospect of reductions in the New York and London bank rates tomorrow gave the advantage to speculators for the rise. Commission house advices, however, were divergent and contradictory. Several advised their customers to use the advance to lighten accounts, while others saw the beginning of an important advance. In some quarters it was reported that pools were making bulish displays in efforts to distribute their holdings, while in others the buying was described as of an encouraging character.

Steel Review Optimistic.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported brisk picking up of activity, which Iron Age described as "snapping back of demand to a level in keeping with actual consumption." Mill bookings in January were placed at 18 per cent above December, but 13¾ per cent below January, 1929. Freight car loadings, as reported for the week ended January 25, showed a moderate gain over the previous week, due to a large movement of coal.

The first chain store sales reports for January were fairly satisfactory. Woolworth reported a gain over January of 1929 of 4.2 per cent. The Old Stores showed a gain of less than one-half of 1 per cent, but this contrasted with a loss in the previous January. A few automobile executives issued optimistic forecasts.

Utilities were again pronouncedly buoyant. American & Foreign Power, American Power & Light, American Telephone, United Corporation, Detroit Edison, and Standard Gas rose 2 to 5 points. Industrials making similar progress included Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, American Can, Chicago Pneumatic, Fox Film, General Electric, Morrell & Co., Newton Steel and Westinghouse Electric.

American Locomotive Gains.

American Locomotive sagged below 95 to a new 1930 low on rumors of a reduction of the dividend, but closed at 100, up 3, on official denial. Gillette was depressed on rumors of delays in bringing out its new model, which were also officially denied, but the stock closed off 2¾. Celotex rose about 3 points to a new high above 56, a gain of more than 20 points in the past few weeks, on reports of a large order from a leading refrigerator manufacturer for its composition board. Simmons was again under pressure, closing about 3 points lower, reflecting reports that its business has suffered through readjustments incident to expansion in the furniture field.

Commodities failed to hold their gains of yesterday. Wheat futures closed about 1 cent lower, reflecting a bearish Government weather report, and reports of export sales by Russia. Corn futures sagged nearly as much. Cotton was firm for a time, but eased later in sympathy with the Liverpool market.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with European currencies steady to firm. Sterling cables closed at $4.86 7-16, up ¼. The Latin Americans were again heavy.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 4 (A.P.).—A slight further advance at the opening of the cotton market here was followed by reactions during today's trading. Buying was much less active after the heavy covering of the previous day and prices worked under comparatively small offerings which were attributed to renewed liquidation and some selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. May declined from 16.42 to 16.18 or 16 points net lower but recovered part of the loss in the late trading and closed at 16.29. The general market closed steady at net declines of 3 to 5 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 8 points on overnight buying orders which appeared to have been attracted by the strength of the previous day. The demand stimulated by yesterday's developments was evidently pretty well supplied around the initial figures, however, and the market soon turned easier under realizing or reselling by recent buyers. This was probably influenced by the indifferent showing of Liverpool, and disappointment over the failure of demand to broaden further on the early advance.

Trade interests were credited with buying, and there was further covering, but the market worked quiet steadily lower until March sold off to 15.94, July to 16.36 and October to 16.58 during the middle of the afternoon or about 14 to 17 points net lower. Offerings then tapered off and closing prices showed rallies from the lowest on covering.

Liverpool cables said there had been trade calling in the market there but that a full response to yesterday's advances in the New York market had been prevented by Bombay and continental liquidation. These advices reported moderate sales of cotton cloths to Africa and South America, but said the decline in silver and low exchange was restricting business with China. Unfavorable reports from the domestic goods market attracted some comment during the day and may have been a contributing factor on the decline. March liquidation remained in evidence but without much change in differences between months. The smaller volume of business was regarded by some traders as indicating a disposition to even up commitments pending further developments in the spot situation or with reference to coming crop preparations.

Exports today 24,517, making 3,068,716 so far this season. Port receipts 23,402. United States port stocks, 2,368,236.

ALL BOND GROUPS DISPLAY ADVANCES

Live Foreign Group Climbs, With French 7s and 7½s Leading.

UTILITY SHARES RALLY

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—All sections of the bond market closed higher today, the averages showing the largest gain in a month. Volume of trading was not particularly imposing, but the list responded readily to buying orders, and it was apparent that the effect of the enormous amount of new financing done in January was wearing off.

French Republic 7½s and 7s again traded with unusual activity. Both issues duplicated the record highs made yesterday, but the former was pulled down a point from the peak level and closed at 122 for a small net loss. The 7s finished at the top, 116.

There was noticeable improvement elsewhere in the foreign group, with German 7s, Japan 6½s, Hamburg 6s, Norway 6s, Tokyo Electric 6s, Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 7s and Australian 4½s making fractional gains on lively inquiry.

Domestic Rails Steady.

Domestic rails were exceptionally firm, and small returns appeared in most of the leading issues. Pennsylvania gold 5s rose a full point. St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s moved up ¾ on a large turnover, and Wabash 5s, series B, advanced 1½.

Utilities were generally higher. American Telephone 5s of 1965 held most of a gain of ⅜, while Columbia Gas & Electric 5s (May), Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s, Portland Electric Power 6s, International Telephone 4½s, Western Union 6½s and the Detroit Edison 5s were well bought.

Numerous industrials of good grade rallied about half a point. These included Wilson First 6s, Liggett & Myers 5s, American Smelting 5s and American Sugar 6s. United States Rubber 5s, Goodyear 5s and numerous others were firm. Standard Oil of New York 4½s moved briskly, rising a full point on a substantial volume.

Convertibles' Tone Strong.

As was natural from the tone of the stock market, convertible bonds were strong. American Telephone 4½s gained 1¾ net, closing at 150 on total sales of more than $1,000,000 principal amount. Gains of a point and more appeared in American International 5½s, Atchison 4½s, and Missouri Pacific 5½s, while New Haven 6s, International Telephone 4½s and Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s rose about half a point each. American I. G. Chemical 5½s sagged back to par for a net loss of ¾.

Obligations of the United States were quiet, but net changes were irregularly higher. Liberty 3½s, first 4¼s and the Treasury 3¾s of 1946-56 improved from three to six thirty-seconds.

VA. IS HOST TO TARHEEL TEAMS

N. C. U. Varsity Five, 2 Ring Squads Are Week-End Guests.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Feb. 5 (A.P.). This is Tarheel week-end at the University of Virginia. Three North Caroline teams invade the Memorial Gymnasium for contests with the Cavaliers Friday and Saturday.

The annual Virginia-Carolina basket ball game is scheduled for the home court Friday night. Saturday evening the Tarheel varsity and freshman boxers come up from Chapel Hill for a double-header match with the Cavaliers.

Virginia has not defeated North Carolina in basket ball since the winter of 1922. The first Tarheel team to take first place in the Southern Conference tournament was downed twice that year by the Cavaliere quint, which did not go to the Atlanta meet.

N. C. U. Victors Over Virginia For Past 8 Years.

For eight years the Carolinas have downed the Virginians in every court contest. Sometimes the Cavaliers have had high hopes of victory, but they have never tasted its sweetness in all these seasons. This year the Virginians have won only a single conference contest, and their chances of victory tonight are somewhat remote.

Carolina's varsity boxers also have an edge on the Virginia fist flingers. The Tarheels have outslugged the V. P. I. teams that defeted the Cavaliers, as well as the V. M. I. team that was licked at the university. They have also won from Washington and Lee.

Capt. Bob Rainey, lightweight, and Jack Fishburne, featherweight, will be back in fighting togs when the North Carolina boxers step into the squared circle here at 7:30 Saturday night. These two men were held out of action Monday when Florida outslugged Virginia four bouts to three.

Virginia Counting on Frosh Boxers to Win.

Virginia hopes for victory in the freshman boxing contest. The young Cavaliers have a crack team with skilled men in several weights. There is hope for victory here in the first-year match as well as the feeling that the varsity bouts will be close.

More than 3,000 spectators saw the double bill last Monday night, and the Virginia athletic authorities are preparing for an even larger crowd for the fourteen bouts slated for Saturday evening.

Davidson Yearlings Win Sixth Straight

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 5.—By scoring eight baskets in the last five minutes of play, Davidson College frosh basketers tonight ended the winning streak of Washington and Lee frosh, winning by the score of 35 to 23. The Little Generals were overwhelmed by the last minute attack of the Wild Cats and succumbed mainly through baskets by Rogers and Manson. The win extended Davidsons' string of victories to six.

Sweepstakes Events For County Bowlers

The second annual Montgomery County sweepstakes and the third annual Prince Georges County sweepstakes will be held on successive Saturdays, February 15 and 22, at the Bethesda and Arcade alleys at Hyattsville, respectively.

Any member of the Bethesda or Friendship Church Leagues or a resident of Montgomery County is eligible to compete for the prizes in the Montgomery County events, while a bowler in the Prince Georges County sweepstakes must be a member of the Prince Georges County Duckpin League or a resident of that county.

Virginia Poly Cubs Beat N. C. Yearlings

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 5.—Virginia Poly Institute Freshmen Quintet showed a superior eye for the basket here tonight to down the University of North Carolina yearling basketers, 45 to 31. The Carolina coaches hurled two complete teams at the Goblets in the first half, but could not halt the scoring antics of Palmer, Bosley, Seamon and Hall.

A goal by Henry and Lineberger's foul shot tied the count at 3 all after three minutes of play, but Seamon, Goblet center, made good twice from the foul line and the locals were never again headed. Hall led the attack with five field goals to give V. P. I. the lead at half time, 24 to 9.

Led by Hines, the Carolinians uncorked a great rally in the final half to match the Goblets point for point, but never seriously threatened the commanding lead.

Davidson Tossers Down V. M. I., 35-27

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 5.—Three sensational rallies by V. M. I. in the second half barely fell short, and the Cadets bowed here this afternoon, 35 to 27, to Davidson's speedy quintet. The Wildcats, with Capt. Johnston, dribbling in for three baskets and sinking one long one, led the Cadets at half time, 21 to 11. V. M. I. scored only two field goals in the half in spite of clever passing under the net that gave openings for easy shots, time after time.

Early in the second period long shots by Capt. Scott, short ones by Bob Brown and taps off the back board by Mergenhagen twice put the Cadets within three points of the Wildcats. Capt. Johnston was held to one field goal, but Rusk and Goodson broke loose from scrimmage and tallied from the foul line to keep the visitors out in front. With five minutes to play, Mergenhagen looped in a one-hander that brought V. M. I. within 2 points of a tie. Again Goodson and Rusk came to the rescue, each scoring once from the floor and Goodson cashing in on two free throws.

NAVY BEATS LEHIGH U., 39 TO 29

Tars Break Streak as Allen Scores 17 Points.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5. — The Navy Basket Ball Team hit into a fine stride this afternoon to mar the unblemished record of Lehigh University, winning a finely contested game by a count of 39 to 29. Until today the South Bethlehem boys had disposed of all comers. "Reds" Allen, Navy's right forward, played the finest game of his career and rolled up the record individual score of the season, 17 points, the result of eight field goals and one from the penalty strip.

He and Capt. Colestock, at center, made a fine combination, the latter amassing 13 points. The pair figured in the hardest kind of scrimmaging, and most of their double-deckers were tossed from tight positions and difficult angles.

Scarcely less brilliant was the work of Many, ace of the Lehigh outfit. He was all over the floor and reeled off six field goals, despite the fact that he was a well-marked man throughout and two Middies generally kept guarding him.

W. & L. LISTS SCHOLASTIC TOURNEY

South Atlantic Title Court Play Listed March 6 to 8.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 5.—Basketball teams from high and preparatory schools all over the South have been invited to the Seventh Annual Interscholastic Basket Ball Tournament to be held at Washington and Lee University here March 6, 7 and 8. Announcements of the tournament were sent out this week to more than 100 schools by R. A. Smith, graduate manager of athletics at the university.

The Washington and Lee Tournament annually determines the scholastic championship of the South Atlantic States, and this year Mr. Smith has received inquiries from many more schools than have ever before participated.

A number of new features have been added for this year's tournament. One of the most important is the qualification for entry. No school which has not won 50 per cent of its games will be allowed to participate in the tournament. This is done to insure a tournament made up of winning teams.

Two Officials to Handle Each Game.

Another new feature will be two officials for each game of the tournament. In the past it has been the custom to have a dual officiating system for the final rounds, but this year even the preliminary games will be run by a referee and an umpire.

Teams this year will be made up of eight players, coach, and manager. In the past, ten players have been allowed. The new arrangement will permit distant schools to send representatives.

Any school in the South is permitted to enter the tournament if it has won half of this season's games. Mr. Smith said today that while he has sent invitations to a large number of schools, any school which might have been unintentionally omitted may secure information from him.

Entries for the tournament will be closed March 3.

Eight Track Dates For Carolina Staters

Raleigh, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The 1930 track schedule of North Carolina State College, announced by Athletic Director Ray Sermon, lists eight engagements for the Techmen, six of which will be dual meets. State will enter teams in the North Carolina and Southern Conference meets.

The season will open with a dual meet with V. P. I. at Raleigh on March 29 and close with the Southern Conference meet at Birmingham on May 9 and 10. State will meet four conference teams other than the Gobblers. Ten lettermen will be available to Coach Sermon, who has had part of the squad at work since fall.

March, 29—V. P. I. at Raleigh.
April 11—Washington and Lee, at Lexington, Va.; 12, V. M. I., at Lexington, Va.; 16, Duke, at Raleigh; 26, University North Carolina, at Chapel Hill.
May 1-2—State meet place to be decided; 9-10, Southern Conference meet, Birmingham, Ala.

COMPANY F RESERVES WIN.

JACOBSON ON FARM.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—"Baby Doll" Jacobson, veteran of many major and minor league campaigns, has quit baseball for the farm.

Jacobson has purchased a farm near Orion, Ill., where he started playing baseball on the sandlots in 1908. He played with Quincy, of the Three Eye League, last season.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 5.—The younger teams in the Alexandria League will swing into action tomorrow night when the Del Ray Five meet the Whitestone Five. Both these teams are composed for the most part of young players. The Whitestones are favorites, due to their clever playing against the larger and more experienced St. Mary's Celtics Team last week, when they led them through the whole game only to lose by a single point. The suburban boys have strengthened their line-up with the addtion of Babe Clarke, who has just returned home from William and Mary College, where he captained the freshman team.

Billy Schwartz, Alexandria's fighting baker boy, will fight in the main attraction in the Rockville A. C. bouts that will be staged on February 22. The Alexandria boy will fight Young Strecker, of Washington.

Reds Acquire McWeeney, Durocher

Brooklyn Gets Luque, Cuban, in Exchange for Pitcher.

Yanks Free Infielder on Waivers; Move Is Surprise.

By BRIAN BELL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Cincinnati's Reds, of the National League, today drew on clubs of Greate New York for two players, surrendered one, and promised to deliver another later. The transfer of Leo Durocher, flashy fielding shortstop but light hitter, was effected by the Yankees to the Reds for an unannounced sum of money and an unidentified player. The Cincinnati player, however, is not expected to join the Yankees, but will be used to pay an obligation the club owes in the Pacific Coast League.

Cincinnati gave Adolfo Luque, veteran Cuban pitcher, to Brooklyn in an even trade for Douglas McWeeny, a big pitcher with a world of "stuff," but weak last year in control.

Waiving of Durocher Surprise.

Alert observers along the baseball Rialto were surprised that Durocher could be waived out of the American League. The Springfield, Mass., boy hit only .246 for New York last season, but he was regarded as the best fielding shortstop in the business. He has played with the Yankees two seasons, but has been the property of the club for four years, spending one year at Atlanta and another at St. Paul on option.

He is only 24 years old, but one of baseball's most gifted conversationalists and famed from one end of the diamond to the other as a "jockey" who makes himself objectionable to opposing players by "riding" them.

If Durocher becomes a regular for the Reds the far-famed double-play combination of Ford and Critz will be broken up. The Cincinnati shortstop and second baseman in 1928 assisted the Reds in making a record of 194 double plays. Critz is regarded by many experts as the best fielding second baseman in baseball.

The trade between Cincinnati and Brooklyn involves two pitchers who were ineffective last year. Luque, the only Cuban player in the majors, is nearing 40 years of age, but still is a smart, resourceful pitcher. McWeeny, who is only 31 years old, is a big fellow who had a good year in 1928, but never could get started in 1929.

McWeeney and Luque Were Ineffective.

Luque last season participated in 32 games, winning five and losing sixteen. His average earned runs allowed per nine-inning game was 4.50. McWeeny took part in 36 games, winning 4 and losing 10. His average of earned runs per game was 6.10.

Dan Howley, manager of the Reds, has moved to the National from the American League and the addition of Durocher marks the third American League player to go with him. The others, Bob Meusel, of the Yankees, and Harry Heilmann, of Detroit, are expected to strengthen the Reds' outfield.

Coach Mills Unhurt In Automobile Mishap

Tom Mills, newly appointed athletic director at Georgetown University, escaped unhurt with Mrs. Mills, their three children and John Colerick in an automobile collision at Hagerstown last Tuesday, it was learned with Mills' arrival in the city yesterday.

En route from South Bend, Ind., where Mills was assistant to Knute Rockne, the party's car collided headon with a lighter automobile, almost completely demolishing the latter, but all escaped injury.

Mills will confer with Georgetown officials today. He said he had not yet set a date for the start of spring football practice. The appointment of a baseball coach is also indefinite, he said, adding that either one of his assistants, Colerick or Tim Moynihan, may be given the post.

Bob Considine And Partner Win Twice

Advance to Quarter-Finals in Indoor Title Net Play.

Face Hard Test Today in Rockafellow-Cutler Team.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Bob Considine, of Washington, D. C., and Ernest Kuhn, New York, won two matches today to reach the quarter finals of the national indoor tennis doubles championship. Their second and more decisive victory was scored over Jacques and Giles Verstraten, of New York, father and son, at 6—3, 6—1.

Play today was confined entirely to doubles, tournament officials postponing the singles quarter-finals until tomorrow.

Persistent lobbing enabled Considine and Kuhn to defeat Frank Bonneau, New York, and Harold McGuffin, Philadelphia, in the first round. The scores were 13—11, 2—6, 6—3, the match having been called yesterday after one set had been played, and concluded today.

Shifting to a hard-hitting attack, Kuhn and the lanky Considine then gained their quarter-final bracket at the expense of Jacques and Giles Verstraten.

Quarter-Final Matches On Day's Card.

The Hunter-Throckmorton and Coggeshall and Murphy teams had reached this vantage point yesterday and did not play today.

In the quarter-finals tomorrow Hunter and Throckmorton play Walter Swaybill and Stanley Harte, New York; Rockafellow and Cutler meet Considine and Kuhn, Appel and Hall encounter Raymond Stone and Irving Raymond, Columbia University, and Coggeshall and Murphy take on Ed Burns and Reg Talmage, New York.

The quarter-finals in single also are on tomorrow's schedule.

Seattle Buys Ruether From Missions Club

San Francisco, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Walter "Dutch" Ruether, one of the foxiest pitchers ever to perform in the Coast League, will dispense his left-handed wares as a member of the Seattle Indians this season. His sale, as an outright cash deal, was announced here today by Wade "Red" Killefer, president-manager of the San Francisco Missions.

After a long and notable career in the big leagues as a member of the Brooklyn Nationals and Washington and New York Americans, Ruether returned to the Coast circuit in 1928 as a member of the San Francisco Seals.

He led the league that year but was weak last season.

Missouri Bars Roebuck As Opponent of Carnera

St. Louis, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—State Boxing Commissioner Seneca C. Taylor this afternoon rejected Theodore "Tiny" Roebuck, Kansas City Indian boxer, as the opponent for Primo Carnera, Italian giant, in the latter's appearance at the arena here next Tuesday night.

At a conference with Mique Malloy, Chicago promoter, who is bringing Carnera to St. Louis, Commissioner Taylor notified the matchmaker that Roebuck was unsatisfactory and would not be permitted to box the Italian here.

Taylor submitted a list of boxers whom he would approve as Carnera's opponent. This list includes Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla.; Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis; Angus Snyder, Arthur Dekuh, Jack Demave and Jimmy Byrne.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Back from the stormy atmosphere of Chicago, Primo Carnera, Italian ambling Alp, will display his size and prowess before Newark's fight fans tomorrow night in a ten-round bout with "Cowboy" Billy Owens, of Oklahoma.

The high spots on the Oklahoma cowboy's record are two technical knockouts at the hands of George Godfrey, by no means a little fellow, in 1926.

A. A. U. TITLE CRESCENTS' BIG AIM

145 Pounders Make Third Appearance in Post's Tourney.

TWICE defeated by the ultimate champions in their two previous quests for 145-pound honors in the last two A. A. U. basket ball tournaments held here, the Crescents are ready for a third campaign for the same title in the big tournament to be held next month under the auspices of The Washington Post.

In the 1928 tournament, the Crescents were defeated in an extra period game by the Woltz Photographers, who later won the championship. Last year, the Crescents bowed to the St. Peter's Five, which also went on to the finals to gain the title.

Have Won 8 of 12 Games to Date.

The Crescents, who play in the Sunday School League as the United Brethrens, have made an impressive showing to date, winning eight of twelve games in that league as well as nine out of twelve games in independent circles. Their list of victims includes several strong unlimited teams.

Their setbacks have been at the hands of strong teams and most of them have been by narrow margins. The De Luxe A. C. scored a victory by one point, as did the Petworth Mets. The Stewart Bros. Five trimmed the Crescents by a five-point margin. The Crescent victories have been at the expense of the Calvary Drake, Pontiac, Company E, Remsens, Woodlawn and other prominent teams.

Everett Russell On Team.

Everett Russell, Tech star and one of the high point scorers of the present high school series, plays a prominent role for the Crescents. Ralph Lovell, erstwhile Central courtman; John Monk, former Central tosser and now with Georgetown Prep; Henry Weigel, former Boys Club Celtic and Tech luminary; Bill Streets, another former Boys Club Flashes star and now of St. John's; Carl Pfau, of last year's Tech squad; Paul Lawson, of the 1928 Stewart Bros. Five; Myer Rosenblatt, of Strayer's Business College, and Donald Tracey, a clever center, comprise the squad.

In their previous tournament engagements, the Crescents have been content with the knowledge that they were eliminated by the ultimate champions. This year they hope to bridge the gaps in the early rounds and annex the title which they have narrowly missed on two previous occasions.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

A MODEST man is James E. Pixlee, George Washington's athletic director in chief.

When Navy announced that George Washington was on its 1930 football schedule, Washingtonians immediately said it was the work of Jim Pixlee—that the energetic Missourian had dug deep in his bag of diplomacy and come up with something that procured one of the choicest games a Colonial Team would get.

But Pixlee holds up his hands and says: "Wait a minute, you guessed wrong. It was the Naval Academy sport heads, and all the thanks is due them."

So Pixlee, in a written statement, explains: "A good deal of 'house' has been given this department for getting a place on the Navy schedule for 1930. Feeling that credit should be given where credit is due, I want to say that this move is simply good sportsmanship on the part of Commander Jonas Ingram and Coach Bill Ingram.

Navy Heads Lent Friendly Hand.

"Both Commander and Bill Ingram knew something of my peculiar problem here in George Washington University. A spirit of good fellowship and good sportsmanship on their part prompted them to offer me the date in 1930. This was not a personal favor to me. I do not believe personal friendship would enter into any calculations with the Naval Academy. The management of the Naval Academy simply reached out a friendly hand to George Washington University, doing the nice thing to help this institution out of the rut.

"Such a move could well be expected from the Naval Academy where a high standard of sportsmanship is a fundemental part of their training. If there is any doubt in any one's mind of this fact, you have only to remember that the Navy adopted a three-year participation and one-year residence rule without pressure from the outside. They voluntarily discarded very real advantages in order to further a better understanding and sportsmanlike attitude toward the college world athletically."

Pixlee's Modesty Outstanding.

We don't doubt Pixlee's sincerity at all. He really wants no credit for scheduling the Navy game, or for any other progressive step taken by George Washington, in our opinion. In the short time we've known him, it has seemed that modesty is one of his outstanding qualities.

But he is deserving of some of the credit, no matter what he says.

Remember the George Washington football banquet last December and remember that Bill Ingram came over from Annapolis to make the principal speech? Well, who do you suppose

RAY BARBUTI LAST IN 3 SPRINTS

Olympic Hero Fails in Return to Track as Dash Man.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Ray Barbuti learned tonight that as a sprinter he is a good quarter-miler. The big former Syracuse University football star who won the Olympic 400-meter championship for America's only flat race victory in the games at Amsterdam went out of his class and finished a hopelessly distanced last in a special sprint series that marked his return to competition following his recent reinstatement by the A. A. U.

Barbuti, who is at his best at the quarter mile and not the sprints, was last from the start in the 50-yard event and crossed the line eased up and grinning, hopelessly out of it. Bill Bruder, of the Newark A. C. fi was first in 5 3-5 seconds; Bob Talbot, Newark A. C., second; Bob Wiese, New York A. C., third; John McDonald, Yale, fourth, and Barbuti, running unattached, fifth. Barbuti took too long to get under way and by the time he was in full stride his rivals had scuttled into the lead like a pack of rabbits.

Barbutti fared even worse in the 60-yard event of the sprint series. His 180 pounds of bone and muscle ripped one of the starting blocks loose from the floor and he was left at the post, not even getting started. The others finished in the same order as in the 50, Bruder being clocked at 6 4-5 seconds.

Barbuti, getting a slow start, was last in the 70 yard event of the sprint series, finishing 5 yards back of the winner.

The big copetitive thrill of the evening came when Ray Conger, the slender Iowan who holds the national 1000-yard championship, was beaten at the distance by Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland, in 2 minutes 15 seconds, speedy time for the flat 113th Regiment Armory track.

Phil Edwards, young Negro internationalist who starred for New York University and the Canadian Olympic team, bowed to both Martin and Conger in a thrilling finish. Edwards set the early pace, but could not gain enough of a lead to withstand the closing sprints of Martin and Conger.

It was the first winning race of the season for Martin, a veteran of three Olympic games as a representative of Switzerland.

Tilden Bows to Briton in Upset; Had Mind on Bridge, He Declares

CANNES, France, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden, American tennis champion, was beaten today by E. C. Peters, sixth ranking British player, in one of the biggest upsets ever witnessed on the Riviera. The match was decided in straight sets at 9—7, 8—6.

It was hard to tell which was the more surprised when the match was over, the winner or the loser.

Tennis followers here concluded that the explanation was that Tilden was taking things easily while his opponents were training hard in the hope of beating him. However, many felt that Peters, as he played today, could have beaten any player on the Riviera except Cochet.

Tilden attributed his downfall to over-confidence and failure to keep his mind on the game.

"If I played negligently," he remarked, "it was because my mind was on bridge."

He seemed not greatly perturbed over his defeat.

Tilden's tennis against Peters was far below par, while the Britisher was playing over his head.

Tilden later returned to the court and, paired with Cecilie Aussem, of Germany, defeated Mr. and Mrs. Tottenham in the first round of mixed doubles at 6—1, 6—3.

College Fives In 4 Games Tonight

Georgetown, N. Y. U. "Rubber" Fray Tops the Program.

Western Maryland at College Park; C. U. Plays St. John's.

FAST, hard-fought basket ball should be on display tonight at Tech High School Gymnasium when the Georgetown and New York University Fives clash at 8:30 o'clock in the rubber game of their series. Each has won a decision in earlier games played in the North. The game heads a heavy card for District colleges tonight, with four games scheduled.

Georgetown and New York are both exponents of the five-man defense style of basket ball; and since there is plenty of speed in each team, the game should develop some of the most interesting action seen on a Capital court this season.

Appearing with the Violets will be Jerry Nemecek, football captain-elect, who is an outstanding courtman as well as a shining light on the gridiron. He has made his presence felt by Georgetown in both football and basket ball during the last two years.

Dunn May Play In Game.

Georgetown topped off its training for this game with a hard workout yesterday at the Hilltop. Coach Dudack divided the squad into two teams, with the regulars finding the second-stringers tough opponents. Johnny Dunn, regular in 1927, who recently returned to the squad, played with the second team. He probably will get into tonight's battle at some stage.

Three other local college games will be staged tonight. Catholic University will entertain St. John's, of Annapolis, at Brookland; Maryland will play host to Western Maryland at College Park, and Gallaudet will oppose Benjamin Franklin on the neutral Langley High School floor. In the last-mentioned game Benjamin Franklin will be out to avenge an earlier defeat, the only blot on its record, which includes an unbroken string of ten victories.

Eastern High Quintet Routs Episcopal, 41-30

Eastern High School's Five evened accounts for the season with Episcopal yesterday, winning a return game by a 41-30 score in the Eastern Gymnasium. Both coaches used substitutes freely with the result that 23 players participated in the game. Barney Ryan carried off the individual scoring honors for Eastern with 10 points while Hancock, of the visitors, came through with 11 points.

North Carolina U. Five Defeats V. P. I., 30-21

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 5.—University of North Carolina basketeers unleashed a superior floor game and coupled it with a weather eye for the basket to roll up a commanding lead in the first half and defeat Virginia Poly Institute on Memorial Court tonight 30 to 21. The Tar Heels showed uncanny ability to break up the Poly attack and take the ball away from the Gobblers time after time.

Dameron, with four field goals led the attack in the first half, while Marpet and Alexander, Tar Heel guards held the Poly shooters to a lone field goal by Moore in the first half. Carolina led 26 to 6 at the half. V. P. I all but swept their opponents from the court in the final half, counting fifteen points to Carolina's nine and twice were with five points of the invaders. Moore and Baker the Poly forwards went on a rampage midway the half and forced Coach Fetzer to yank his three substitutes in favor of Harper. Dameron and Green, the Tar Hell shock troops. This trio tallied a trio of ringers in the final ten minutes to match the attack of the Poly team. The line-up.

Oliver Is Stopped by Coveleskie in Only Knockout of Card.

2,500 See Malevich, De Pasquale, Zeno Win for C. U.

By JACK ESPEY.

ILL luck attended the debut of George Washington University in intercollegiate boxing last night when the Colonial team, minus the services of three regulars who were found scholastically ineligible three hours before the start of the match, loost to the Catholic University team in Brookland gymnasium by a margin of six bouts to one.

Catholic won three bouts on decisions and was awarded three others by default, while George Washington scored when Leo Coveleslie knocked out oJhnny Oliver, making his first for Catholic, in the lightweight class.

More than 2,500 persons attended and 200 others were left clamoring for admission when the doors were closed promptly at 8:30 o'clock, the time advertised in advance as the latest that admission would be granted.

Jeweler Lost Also To Court Team.

Max Jeweler, featherweight, Bud Terry, welterweight, and Bill Stanley, middleweight, were the George Washington trio declared ineligible owing to classroom deficiencies. By their failure to appear in the ring, the officials awarded their bouts respectively to Harry Di Giacomo, Rocco Biasi and Tom McCabe, who were ready to represent Catholic. Jeweler received a double penalty in effect, as he also is a member of the G. W. Basketball Team. He will be unable to take the floor against American University Saturday night in one of the big games on the Colonial court schedule.

What was left of the program developed some old-fashioned slugging, the best, or most damaging, of which was uncorked in the right hand of Leo Coveleskie, who sent Johnny Oliver to slumberland in the second round. The former Knights of Columbus mainstay planted an overhand smash flush on the swarthy Cardinal's jaw. It was ten minutes before he regained consciousness.

Malevich Outclasses Oelschlager.

Malevich conceded 38 pounds to Bill ("Red") Oelschlager, but easily got inside the Colonial's defense and took every round. Oelschlager, who was making his initial attempt at boxing, was never able to use his weight to advantage. Both boys wore themselves out in the first and second rounds and finished the bout at a snail's pace.

The bout between Zeno and John Duffalo of G. W. opened in a whirlwind of punches and promised for a while to end in a knockout. Instead, it would up slowly, too. Zeno drew blood from Duffalo's nose in a wild first-round exchange.

De Pasquale's superior fighting at close range earned him the decision over Dave Cohen. The latter had entered the bout in a weakened condition as a result of taking off 9 pounds.

Naval Academy Ill Feeling Ended By Ring Victory

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—A period of friction and almost open warfare between the midshipmen officers of the Second Battalion, Naval Academy, and the underclasmen, termed a "reign of terror" by the latter, came to an end Saturday night wh enMidshipman Paul Moret, comander of the battalion and football end, boxed in the crucial bout of the match between the Naval Academy and University of New Hampshire.

Feeling in the underclasmen in his battalion has been bitter against Moret, who was blamed for the stringent manner in which underclassmen were being reported by the first classmen, but they could not hold their bitterness when their leader was fighting for teh Academy and the Navy.

The period bad feeling began early last week when the midshipment officers of teh battalion decided that the discipline of the unit was not so stiff as it should be. The officers decided to be a little harder boiled and began to report underclassmen upon the least excuse.

Bitterness Increased By Prank.

The feeling of the members of the second class, the next below the graduating class, was particularly strong, as they were being reported as stringently as the lower-class men.

The bitterness of the midshipmen officers was increased by an incident which was blamed on the underclassmen of the battalion.

This was the painting, with bright yellow, a stone forming part of the approach to Bancroft Hall, upon which the figures "1930" were carved.

The policy of rigid reports was continued by the upper classmen, and it is stated that the number reached 85 for one day. It is possible that the feeling would have continued and even developed seriously had not a change of attitude been brought about by the boxing match of Saturday. Hearty support was given Moret by the under classmen of his battalion, which had the effect of softening that midshipman officer and those connected with him so that a new deal was made all around.

Loyola Five Beats American U., 30 to 19

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 5.—Loyola College obtained basket ball revenge in satisfying quantities by defeating American University, 30 to 19, at Evergreen Gymn. In their prevoius contest on the home court of American U., in Washington, the latter had snared a victory, 21 to 18. But the standard of play on the part of the two teams was hardly comparable, as Loyola set the pace, directed the course of the game to fit its own style of basket ball and won as it pleased. After the first few minutes in the initial half spent by the two teams in settling into their strides, the score stood 6 to 5, in Loyola's favor.

Here the home team launched an attack that tallied 10 points before American hit the mark again, and provided a margin of leadership that lasted throughout the contest as protection against the few short-lived rallies attempted by the Eagles. Marino Intrieri and Chief Bender, with two goals apiece, and Ken Curtis, with the odd one, contributed the 10 points.

Minnesota Freshmen Threaten to Transfer

Minneapolis, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—While Louis Gross, head freshman football coach, today began a campaign to keep first-year players from fulfilling threats to leave school, reports on two candidates for the head coaching position at the University of Minnesota were given to President Lotus D. Coffman for review.

Gross, who yesterday said some freshmen were considering following Dr. Clarence Spears to Oregon, said he believed he could smooth the situation over. Several students have asked him what to do, he said, and he advised them to remain at Minnesota.

Meanwhile President Coffman had reports on the two candidates for the post, Bernie Bierman, of Tulane, and Fritz Crisler, of Chicago.

Gross professed not to be worried over the freshman situation, apparently brought about by admiration for Dr. Spears as well as dissatisfaction with the work of the Senate committee on intercollegiate athletics. The Senate committee is charged with finding a successor to Dr. Spears.

ZIDA, FAVORITE, SCORES IN NEW ORLEANS FEATURE

Eil Weir Neck Behind at Finish

Shows Good Speed, But Falls Short in Final Drive.

Lightning Jones Accounts for Third Money.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Zida, from the Rancocas Stable won the Krass Co. Ltd. purse feature on the Fair Grounds program today. F. F. Brant's Eil Weir was second, and Knebelkamp and Morris' Lightning Jones was third. The winner was the favorite and paid $3.80 in the mutuel machines.

Zida went into an early lead and won driving by a neck. Eil Weir showed good speed and held on well in the final drive. Lightning Jones weakened slightly in the final drive. Only five horses ran, Gambol being scratched.

The track was good and the weather clear.

False Pride First Home in Miami Feature.

Miami Race Track, Fla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—False Pride, ridden by Sonny Workman, was a driving winner of the Shenandoah Claiming Purse, a 6-furlong sprint, here today. Sunbroom, with Robertson up, was second and Mount Beacon third, with Kurtsinger up. Golden Volt was fourth. Candy Pig, the favorite was the victim of a very poor ride and after being ridden all over the track finally finished fifth.

False Pride was the quickest to get into his stride and Workman let him step along leading the field. He saved ground at every turn, but, in the stretch, Workman had to ride him hard to make the horse last it out. False Pride held on gamely and won by a length. Sunbroom beat Mount Beacon a length for the place. The time was 1:12 2-5.

Platers Have Their Innings At Havana.

Havana Race Track, Cuba, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A series of claiming races which favored platers, showing preference over the longer routes were programmed at Oriental Park this afternoon. No outstanding feature was down for decision, the majority of winners came from unexpected sources and were accorded but meager support.

Frankman, racing for Mrs. J. Burks, accounted for the fourth race, and showed the way to Festic after a drive, with Determan third. The winner, ridden by the apprentice Passero, dominated the running throughout and stood the gaff courageously at the end to hold Festic safe. The latter was kept closer up than usual during the early running. Swinging for home he made a determined bid, but failed to wear down the leader by a length. He had a wide margin over Determan, which finished a driving third by a matter of inches over Powder.

ZIDA, away well and displaying good speed from the break, forced a fast early pace and, responding gamely to hard riding, outfinished EIL WEIR. The latter showed good speed in pacemaking and held on well in the final drive. LIGHTNING JONES displayed good speed early, but weakened slightly in the final drive.

NICODEMUS, taken back off the early pace and reserved to the stretch, moved up rapidly when called upon and, overhauling RAUCONA, drew out easily. RAUCONA, much used in racing BLACK PATRICIA into submission, had nothing left to stall off winner's challenge. HERENDEEN tired. BLACK PATRICIA quit after showing the most speed in pacemaking.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ALEXANDRIA CHURCH IS RAVAGED BY FIRE

Overheated Furnace Starts Blaze That Sweeps First Floor.

POSTOFFICE SITE SOUGHT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Fire which started from an overheated furnace in the basement last night ravaged the Sunday school room on the first floor of the First Baptist Church, and the main auditorium, on the second floor, was badly damaged by smoke and water.

The fire was discovered a few minutes after 6 o'clock, and when the firemen reached the church smoke was pouring out of the main door on South Washington street. It had gained considerable headway, and the three fire companies of the city deluged the two floors and basement with water for more than an hour before the fire was completely subdued.

The amount of damage was estimated last night at between $10,000 and $12,000 by Fire Chief Duncan. The whole interior of the Sunday school rooms will have to be rebuilt, but the principal damage to the main auditorium is to the pews, ceilings and floors. It is understood the loss is covered by insurance and that the work of restoration will be started as soon as possible.

The Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the church, has his study in the building adjoining the church, which was purchased several years ago and used for Sunday school rooms, the pastor's study and meeting rooms for various purposes. This building was not damaged.

F. Clinton Knight, city postmaster, is looking for suitable quarters for the Alexandria postoffice while the new building, work on which will be started shortly, is in progress. Postmaster Knight has requested those who have property which could be used for the purpose to submit bids for its lease, for a period of one year or eighteen months.

Officials of the Postoffice and Treasury Departments were in the city Tuesday to confer with Postmaster Knight regarding this matter, and several locations, including the Naval Torpedo Station, which has been vacant for several years, were considered. The temporary headquarters, they stated, must be sufficiently large to enable all the business of the local postoffice to be conducted therein.

The plans for the new building indicate that the structure will extend 10 feet beyond the line of the present structure. The new building will have a frontage on South Washington street of 88 feet, and a depth on Prince street of 190 feet, will be three stories in height, and, in addition to the postoffice, will house the various Government offices, including the office of the deputy collector of customs and the courtroom and clerk's office of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia.

The Arlington County School Board has conveyed to the City of Alexandria the George Mason High School, the Mount Vernon Elementary School and the site of the old health center, the deed having been delivered to the city council by Thomas Delaschmutt, chairman of the county school board. The deed was recorded with the clerk of the courts yesterday.

The school property covers approximately 5 acres of land, and takes in the triangle bounded by Mount Vernon avenue, the Washington-Virginia car tracks and Mount Ida avenue. It constituted a part of the public improvements listed for which Alexandria was to reimburse Arlington County when the annexation decree became effective, January 1, but there was some delay in turning it over, owing to the fact that title to the school property was vested in the school board instead of in the county supervisors.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA lost her rubbers.

"I suppose it'll rain every day until I buy a new pair," she sighed.

"Yes, and the minute you buy a new pair it'll stop raining," I consoled her.

Rubbers are like that—when you have 'em you don't need 'em, and when you have no rubbers the flood gates open.

"Are you sure you lost your rubbers? You may have mislaid 'em."

"To be perfectly frank," she said, "somebody stole 'em!"

Somebody stole Luella's rubbers. Wasn't that a fine thing to do? People! It's getting so nowadays nothing is safe, not even rubbers.

"No wonder that rubber stock we own never goes up," remarked Luella.

"How's that?"

"Well," she argued, her logic perfect, "if people steal rubbers instead of buying 'em, how can the rubber industry thrive?"

* * * *

I HADN'T thought of that. The thing to do, as I see it, is to institute a "Don't Steal Rubbers Week."

Luella, unbeknownst to me, put an ad in the paper—a want ad, offering a reward for the return of her rubbers. They were stolen, I believe, from one of the fashionable restaurants—where she had kicked 'em under a table at teatime.

Fifty people called next day, answering the ad, each carrying a pair of rubbers.

"You see how honest the human race is, don't you?" I boasted to Luella.

"Call this honesty?" she countered, "trying to collect a reward for stolen rubbers? What's happened to your sense of humor?"

* * * *

NOT hers, none of the rubbers fit; so there was consolation in that. She didn't have to pay the reward.

"I should think it would be cheaper to buy yourself a new pair of rubbers. Besides, you'll be helping the poor old rubber companies. Every pair of rubbers sold increases the value of stock, and——"

"And what?"

"Some day they may declare a dividend."

Luella hustled downtown. She came back with a dozen pairs of new rubbers, and some galoshes.

Regardless of the weather bureau, there'll be no more rain this year. All because somebody stole a pair of rubbers. That is, of course, unless somebody steals the new ones. Then it'll rain again. And how!

POWER LOBBY IS HIT BY CRAMTON IN PLEA

Michigan Representative, in Talk, Urges Conservation of Potomac's Beauty.

FINANCIAL PLAN IS CITED

A plea for permanent preservation of the natural scenic beauties that enrich the Potomac River along both the District and Virginia shores was delivered by Representative Louis C. Cramton, of Michigan, yesterday over radio station WJSV, located at Mount Vernon Hills, Va.

In his efforts to secure passage of the bill providing for creation of the George Washington Memorial Parkway, which recently passed the House of Representatives, Representative Cramton declared: "I am constantly confronted with the opposition of a power lobby, which does not come with frankness into committee hearings but depends upon more unobstructive methods."

"I have encountered the opposition of those also who urge that, because there is a possibility that a pending survey of navigation conditions may lead to a favorable report upon a navigation program with power features combined, we should defer creation of the park, thereby allowing the blasting of the palisades of the Potomac to proceed, permit oil companies and other industries to settle down upon our water front and the situation generally becoming as complicated as possible."

Scenic Beauty Cited.

Speaking through the auspices of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Cramton declared that the scenic beauty along the Potomac River shores gives the Capital natural beauty second to none of any city in the world.

He also spoke of the historic places along the river, among them Mount Vernon, Fort Washington and Great Falls, which are included in the proposed creation of the George Washington Memorial Parkway and "will serve as the outstanding memorial to the immortal Washington."

The citizenry of the District, Virginia and Maryland, in addition to the Commissioners of the District, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Power Commission and the House of Representatives are solidly behind the memorial parkway bill, which is now pending in the Senate, he added.

Bill Termed Satisfactory.

"As the bill stands, it is in a very satisfactory condition. It establishes the parkway, lays down a financial program for its acquisition and development and expressly leaves it to the future to determine what, if any, power or navigation shall follow." Mr. Cramton declared: "I am frank to say that I am entirely confident that when once this parkway is established and hundreds visit this area for each one who now enjoys it, no Congress will ever permit any commercial development to take place in the gorge of the Potomac that will materially obliterate its present natural beauties."

In conclusion, Mr. Cramton declared that permitting oil companies and other firms to erect buildings along the waterfront in Virginia would seriously mar its scenic beauty.

Mr. Cramton also pointed out the short-sightedness of Congress in 1846 in ceding back to Virginia its part of the grant to the District's 10-mile square. The Virginia portion of the grant comprises what is now Arlington County.

ARLINGTON FACES GAS REVENUE CUT

Proposal Before Commission May Cut County's Fund Nearly $14,000.

OFFICIALS AT HEARING

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

Returning from Richmond yesterday, where he attended the public hearing of the gasoline tax commission, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth explained that the bill which has been drafted for distribution of the gasoline tax provides for the distribution of the 1½-cent tax on the basis of one-third of the 1½ cents on intangibles, as at present, and the remaining two-thirds to be distributed on the basis of population area and mileage.

This proposal, if adopted, will mean a reduction in Arlington County's share of the gasoline tax of approximately $14,000 a year. At the present time the county receives between $69,000 and $70,000 a year.

The county was represented at the hearing, in addition to Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth, by Edward Duncan, chairman of the board of supervisors from Jefferson district; Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, from Washington district, and B. M. Hedrick, supervisor from Arlington district.

The Arlington County Civic Federation meeting last night in the Lyon Park Community House, in adopting the resolution offered by F. E. Mann, chairman of the committee on revenues and county expenditures, inaugurated a movement looking to a change in the method of payment of taxes whereby the taxpayers would be permitted to pay their taxes twice a year instead of once, as is now the law.

The resolution declares that tax delinquencies are $40,000 in excess of last year, and that the present system of payment of taxes is in a measure responsible for this condition.

The committee was instructed to take such steps as it deems necessary to accomplish the purposes of the resolution.

The matter will be thoroughly studied by the committee at a special meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Bertha Kelley, Hamilton avenue, Clarendon, Saturday night.

Mr. Mann stated that copies of the action of the federation will be forwarded to both State Senator Frank L. Ball and Delegate Hugh Reid immediately, asking that they give the matter their serious consideration.

Accepting the proposal of the county board of supervisors to reduce the present water rate 50 a year, providing 1,000 additional water subscribers are obtained, the public health and sanitation committee, of which George F. Cook is the chairman, was instructed, upon motion of Robert E. Plymale, to make a study of the water situation, taking into special consideration the offer for a reduction in the water rate and to submit its recommendations at the March meeting of the federation.

Discussing the water situation, Mr. Mann said: "It behooves this federation to change conditions and to put the water system on a paying basis. Getting the additional 1,000 subscribers is work for the federation. We should not leave it up to the county board of supervisors to secure them."

Upon a motion offered by Thomas Mechem and adopted by the federation, Senator Ball and Delegate Reid will be requested to use their efforts as the county's representatives in the General Assembly for a reduction in price of automobile license tags.

NEW GAS TAX PLAN SHELVED IN VIRGINIA

Idea of Redistributing by Counties of Levies Is Warmly Debated.

WORKMEN'S BILL URGED

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 5.—The Holt commission plan for redistributing the counties' share of the gasoline tax was reported today by the Senate road committee, after a joint hearing on the several plans with the House committee, and it temporarily shelved the Layman bill that would take away half a cent from the counties to be used in maintaining 1,587 miles of road it would add to the State highway system.

The Bryant-Allman plan for distribution, while discussed, was not before the Senate and will have to be acted on by the House.

The road tangle was getting more involved when it was learned that the Senate is seriously considering passing the Porter-Rhodes bill, adding another 1,587 miles to the system, which, it was believed, passed the House principally for political reasons. At least a dozen of those who voted for it having said they would have not done so if they thought it had a chance of passing.

Holt Plan Pleases.

The Holt commission plan for distributing the tax among the counties apparently was received with favor, even by the counties that will lose some of their revenue. It would distribute the money—something over $2,700,000 this year—on the basis of one-third as at present and the other two-thirds actually as to area, population and total of all taxes levied, State and local.

Arlington County, the smallest county in the State, would be one of the heaviest losers under this plan, as it is, while small, one of the heaviest taxpayers, and the present distribution is based solely on the State taxes paid into the State. A saving clause, however, is attached that would make it impossible for any county to receive less than 85 per cent of what it now receives, while an amendment was made that would set the minimum to be received by any county at $10,000 which provision will help several of the poorer, smaller counties.

Just what will happen in the matter of road legislation is a matter of conjecture, but the best observers now are of the opinion that the Porter-Rhodes bill and the Holt commission plan will be accepted, and that an amendment will be fixed whereby the turning over of the new mileage to the State highway system will be done over a period of four or five years, instead of two as provided for in the house measure.

McCauley Opposes Bill.

Delegate John W. McCauley, of Roanoke led the house fight against the measure on the ground that it would clutter up the State with a lot of "paper mileage" which could not be touched within ten years by the State Highway Department, which now is busy trying to build the 7,000 miles now under its jurisdiction.

While the gasoline hearing was, to the counties, the most important matter of the day, other committees were busy turning out bills. The day's work included: Passage by Senate of the Reid-Birrell bill creating the Potomac River Commission to negotiate with Maryland, West Virginia and Federal authorities regarding development along the Potomac River which touches Virginia but over which she has no control.

Passage by the Senate of the tax measure which would permit localities to exempt manufacturers from taxation for a period not to exceed five years, with Ball, Langhorne, Fuller and Staples voting against it.

Statement from Gov. Pollard urging passage of a proposed workmen's compensation bill on which public hearing will be held this afternoon saying that it was a campaign pledge. The proposed bill would raise the compensation from 50 per cent to 66 2-3 per cent of the average weekly wage, not to exceed $17.

Judge Berkeley Promoted.

Election of Judge Beverley Berkeley, of Roanoke, to succeed Judge H. B. Gregory, recently elevated from the Court of Law and Chancery of Roanoke to the Supreme Court of Appeals bench.

Passage by the House, by a vote of 47 to 24 of the Birrell resolution calling on Gov. Pollard to ask the next conference of governors to look into the matter of electing presidents proportionately rather than in State units as at present.

Introduction by Senator Stubbs, of Middlesex, of an oyster repletion bill, calling for the appropriation of $200,000 to replete depleted oyster beds in the State.

Gen. Morgan Monument Asked.

(Associated Press.)

Expenditure of $10,000 for the erection of a monument to Gen. Daniel Morgan at Winchester, Va., would be authorized in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Garber (Republican), Virginia.

Berryville Urges Charter Reform

Town Council Attorney to Ask Tax Exemption Clause Repeal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Feb. 5.—Joseph F. Moore, attorney for the town council, and Frank M. Wray, Commonwealth's attorney, representing the board of supervisors, left for Richmond today in the interest of the bill now in committee asking that the last clause in the town charter, which says, "The town shall be exempt from paying the general county levy, provided it keeps up its streets and looks after its own poor," be rescinded. The town and schools and railroad levy now amounts to $1.90, and this additional levy will make it $2.30 more.

The county is fighting for additional funds for salaries and the like and claims that the town has the benefit of the courthouse for meetings and the grounds for recreation; also that only two other towns in the State have this exemption clause in their charter.

The town, having kept this clause strictly since the charter was granted in 1870, claims that the county gets equal benefit from improved streets, and also that as the poor of the town have never become county charges in that time, it seems no grounds for a change.

CRABTREE IS FOUND GUILTY OF SLAYING

Mercy Not Recommended by Jury Making Sentence of Death Mandatory.

JUDGMENT HALT ASKED

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., Feb. 5.—Only a formal appeal for setting aside the verdict and a new trial, scheduled to be heard here February 15, apparently lies between Walter Crabtree, 36 years old, slayer of three men here the morning of December 18, and hanging.

Crabtree was convicted of first degree murder, as charged in the indictment, without recommendation of mercy from the jury, at 10 o'clock this morning. The verdict automatically carries a sentence of death by hanging. Counsel for Crabtree immediately moved for a new trial, and this motion will be heard as indicated. Counsel also indicated an appeal.

Crabtree heard the verdict with much the same stoicism and indifference that has marked his demeanor through the eight days of evidence taking. He was returned to the Keyser Jail after the jury reported, to be kept there until the arguments for his next move is heard.

Relatives in Court With Him.

His parents and brothers and sisters in the courtroom this morning showed little concern over the finding. There was no demonstration in the courtroom when the jury reported. Not more than 100 persons were present.

The jury had the case 17 hours, getting it late Tuesday afternoon. This period included the theoretical recess overnight at the request of the jury. The instructions were reread by Judge Hughes this morning, and the verdict followed soon after.

Crabtree was convicted specifically of the slaying of Justice of the Peace H. Carter Inskeep. He was indicted also for the slaying of Jaller Ben Miller and Edward Wolford, all three killed in succession on a two-hour murder trip, which Crabtree made about the town before dawn on December 18.

First Hanging in County.

The prosecution said last night that had the trial on the Inskeep charge produced anything less than first-degree murder, the State would have asked trial in the other two indictments.

The hanging verdict is the first ever returned by a Hampshire County jury.

Crabtree pleaded "not guilty" and his defense was insanity. His family testified as to his personal peculiarities, during youth and manhood, and contended they indicated lack of mental balance. On the other hand business men and friends testified in rebuttal they had never seen convincing evidence of his lack of mental stability and had accepted him as responsible.

The defense, in summation, declared it did not expect a "not guilty" verdict and asked for mercy at the hands of the jury.

MEN'S DEATHS LAID TO THEFT ATTEMPT

Two West Virginians Are Believed to Have Shot Each Other.

BODIES ARE IDENTIFIED

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Bodies of A. Walton Borror, 40, and Paul Morris, 25, were found today in Borror's garage at Ridgeley, W. Va., near here, in positions indicating each had shot the other to death when Morris attempted to rob Borror. After several hours identity of the youth was definitely established by a friend who said Morris had told him of robbing the Borror garage once before.

Borror had been wounded four times, three bullets striking him in the chest and four shots had been fired from Morris' pistol. One shot had struck Morris over the heart and beside Borror was a pistol in which two cartridges had been discharged and two others had failed to fire.

Chester Miller, of Ridgeley, identified Morris' body this afternoon and said the youth had admitted to him that he robbed the same garage about a year ago. Morris also was identified by his uncle, Martin Mayo, of Cumberland.

When the bodies were found West Virginia and Maryland authorities had begun their investigation with a tentative identification of the younger man which later proved erroneous.
